

A City's Tribute

City Pauses To Remember

As the seven-division parade dedicated to America's war dead began its line of march down Broadway on Memorial Day, a Marine Color Guard led the way. With rifles to shoulders and flags held high, the uniformed servicemen were followed by the car bearing parade grand marshal, the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, chaplain of American Legion Post 150 of Kingston. Parade wended its way in a downtown direction following pre-parade ceremonies at the Academy Green, highlighted by addresses by Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan and the Rev. Mr. Brown.

Freeman photographer Milton Wagenfohr has captured other memorable scenes along the line of march and on the Academy Green in other photographs on page 18.

10,000 Witness Parade, Special Emphasis on Viet

Sunny skies and cool breezes favored Kingston Memorial Day and this perfect weather combination brought out a crowd of some 10,000 people to watch the city's seven-division parade dedicated to those who gave their lives for their country.

Young and old alike lined the streets and composed the crowd, which was far larger than in years past, as Kingstonsians paid tribute to all war dead with special emphasis on those who have died in the current Vietnam conflict.

Colorful March

The Memorial Day march, sponsored by the Kingston Veterans Association, was a colorful display of high school bands and other musical aggregations, as well as hundreds of marchers from the ranks of veterans and civic groups. Little League baseball teams in full uniform paraded with Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, firemen, policemen and drum and bugle corps. Martial music blared on the spring air and color guards swung by once the parade began wending its way down Broadway, following a pre-parade ceremony at the Academy Green at 2 p. m. Children scrambled for shells in the area when the newest feature of the ceremony, a 21-gun salute by the 1st Battalion 156th Artillery, NYARNG, took place.

Among other highlights of the day's event were the appearance in the parade of the Capt. William Dale O'Brien detachment of Young Marines (MCL) of Albany, a pre-parade address by the Rev. Clarence E. Brown, chaplain of American Legion Post 150 of Kingston and parade marshal, and a Memorial address by Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan, which preceded presentation of wreaths by Sidney Lane, chairman of the sponsoring organization.

Gaity, Solemnity

From the moment the National Anthem, as played by American Federation of Musicians Local 215, Kingston marching band, opened the festivities, a combination of holiday gaiety and solemn tribute prevailed. Following introductions by Harry N. Thayer of WGHQ, the Rev. Robert T. Shellenberger, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church and chaplain of Ulster Detachment Marine Corps League, delivered the opening prayer. After the main speeches of the day and music by the marching band, wreaths were presented and Rabbi Harry Schechtman, Congregation Ahavath Israel of VFW Post 1386, offered the benediction.

HOWITZERS BOOM in tribute to U.S. servicemen who have died for their country as the 1st Battalion 156th Artillery, NYARNG performs a 21-gun salute during Memorial Day ceremonies at Kingston's Academy Green. Echo taps accompanied the salute, after which parade units began their march along city streets.

54 Dead in State

Man, 65 Killed on Thruway

The national traffic death count for the four-day Memorial Day weekend, which began at 6 p. m. Friday, rose to 801 by midnight Tuesday.

The grim toll claimed 54 accidental deaths in New York State, 40 of which were due to traffic accidents. This topped the previous holiday high in 1965 when 35 were killed on streets and highways.

Aaron Johnson, 65, of New York City, was killed at 9:40 p. m. Tuesday when he wandered away from Ulster Service area on the N.Y. State Thruway and was struck by a car driven by Arthur Dingmon, 49, of Rhinebeck.

The Dingmon car was traveling in the southbound lane and could not avoid hitting Johnson as he stepped out into the highway. He was Ulster County's 16th traffic fatality this year.

Johnson was severed at the beltline. Coroner William S. Keyser arrived at the scene and pronounced Johnson dead. State Trooper Joseph Stinton and BCI Investigator Richard Ryan investigated.

On Saturday afternoon 9-year-old Stephan R. Hamilton of New Paltz was fatally injured when his bicycle was involved in a collision with a car on the Albany Post Road in New Paltz. He was the 15th highway death in 1967.

Three Car Accident
A three-car accident occurred at 2:50 p. m. Monday on Route 32 in the Town of Ulster.

A car driven by Jorge Burgos of RD 4, Kingston, while traveling south on Route 32, attempted to pass a vehicle operated by Bernard Winfield, 41, of Tilton. Crossing into the northbound lane, the Burgos car struck a vehicle driven by Aloysius Fellenstein, 74, of Germantown in the left rear, pushing the car into the southbound lane where it was struck by Winfield's auto.

Burgos was arrested for operating a vehicle without insurance, driving while intoxicated, and interfering with safe operation of a vehicle. Troopers T. J. Crowley and Robert Malloy investigated.

On Monday at 5 p. m., a car driven by Linda Chrystie, 18, of Saugerties, while traveling north on Route 32, Town of Ulster, swerved to avoid an unknown vehicle which had veered into the lane, and skidded off the side of the road.

Miss Chrystie was taken to Kingston Hospital suffering from a possible fractured skull.

Trooper David Wachtel investigated. Allan Hagadorn of Allaben, while traveling along Route 28 near the Town of Saugerties, Tuesday at 2:30 a. m. apparently fell asleep at the wheel, failed to negotiate a turn in the highway, swerved, the vehicle turning over on its side finally coming to rest in the middle of the highway.

He was taken to Kingston Hospital by Saugerties Ambulance Service.

Collided on Curve
A car driven by James Lane, 20, of Woodstock, struck a car operated by Gleen Bender, 27, of Houston, Tex. at 8:15 p. m. Tuesday as he was rounding a curve on the Glasco Turnpike outside of Saugerties.

Lane was arrested for reckless driving by State Trooper Wachtel.

John Pidgeon, 22, of New Paltz, while traveling west on the Creek Locks Road, Town of Ulster, attempted to avoid striking three children who were walking along the road. He swerved his car too late to

Soviet Warships Move to Mideast

By GARVEN HUDGINS

CAIRO (AP) — Soviet warships began sailing through the Bosphorus today, raising the threat of a naval confrontation with the British and Americans in the Middle East crisis, Turkish reports said.

Naval sources in Istanbul said the advance party consisted of a submarine repair ship and four armed escort vessels bound for the eastern Mediterranean.

The Turkish navy command said the Soviet government reported it will send 10 warships, in all, through Turkey's strait to the Mediterranean, where the powerful U.S. 6th Fleet and British ships are deployed.

One source said that even if these ships join a Soviet flotilla of about a dozen ships, the naval balance would remain strongly in favor of the United States. The Soviet flotilla, which has been shadowing the 6th Fleet, includes submarines, spy trawlers and destroyers.

In other developments: Syria, whose charge that Israel planned an invasion touched off the current crisis, ignored the new Jordanian-Egyptian defense alliance and issued virulent propaganda attacks against King Hussein of Jordan.

Iraq announced that troops had left Baghdad, the capital, to join other units en route to Egypt to face an Israeli buildup on the border. Baghdad radio said other troops will leave soon to join other Iraqi soldiers in Syria.

Israel, already mobilized, announced the extension of the 47-hour work week to a possible maximum of 71 hours to help make up for a manpower shortage.

The Jordanian Parliament in Amman, the capital, adopted a resolution hailing the Egyptian-Jordanian defense pact as "the first step toward the liberation of Palestine and the regaining of the usurped land."

The Turkish naval command said the bulk of the Soviet naval force is expected to sail through the strait June 3. They are destroyers No. 626, 383 and 514.

The command said another destroyer, No. 355, and the icebreaker Verdisan are expected to pass through the Bosphorus. They will be accompanied by a torpedo boat.

According to a sailing schedule of Soviet warships through the strait handed to the Turkish government and disclosed by the strait command, an ocean-going tug will follow them June 7.

Vice Adm. William I. Martin, commander of the 6th Fleet, said Tuesday the United States intends to keep the international sea lanes open.

"We will do whatever we are directed to do by the President and that includes a whole range of options," said Rear Adm. Lawrence R. Geis, commander of the 6th Fleet's Task Force 60.

A buildup of Western naval power also appeared under way in the Red Sea as Britain's Cabinet pondered ways for joint action with the United States and other maritime powers to (Continued on Page 18, Col. 5)

Navy Hits Fuel Dumps

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. Navy jets from the carrier Hancock flew through a hail of missiles and antiaircraft fire today to bomb two fuel dumps less than four miles from the center of Haiphong.

The daylight raid on the dumps just across the Kua Kam River was the closest attack to either Hanoi or Haiphong in more than a week. There had been reports from Washington that U.S. raids on the immediate areas of North Vietnam's two major cities were being suspended temporarily while U.S. planes concentrated on less well defended targets.

Heavy Ground Action
Heavy ground fighting was reported in South Vietnam Tuesday and today. U.S. Marines were fighting near the demilitarized zone, troops of the 1st Cavalry, Airmobile Division had a rough fight south of Da Nang, and South Vietnamese forces reported they killed 106 Communists, also south of Da Nang, and 41 Viet Cong in a battle 85 miles southwest of Saigon.

U.S. headquarters reported three U.S. planes lost in the past 24 hours, two over North Vietnam, and a helicopter shot down and destroyed in South Vietnam. This raised the total losses to 564 combat planes in the war against North Vietnam and 181 in South Vietnam. One Navy pilot was missing, and one Marine pilot was killed.

The Navy said the Haiphong raid hit the Loi Dong and Cong My petroleum dumps. Loi Dong, a major facility, had been bombed three times previously but the raid on Cong My was the first. Both consist of fuel tanks, river piers and some buildings and other facilities.

Returning pilots reported black smoke billowing from both targets.

The Navy made no mention of any planes lost on the Haiphong raid.

North Vietnam also got a deluge of 1.7 million leaflets reprinting the statement May 17 by 16 U.S. Senate critics of American policy in Vietnam. The statement warned the Communists that despite internal criticism of U.S. war policies, America will not quit the war without an honorable settlement.

U.S. headquarters reported two ground battles continuing today.

Ridgeline Plastered
A spokesman said about 400 Marines jumped off at dawn below the demilitarized zone to clean off a north-south ridgeline where 45 Marines were wounded and one killed Tuesday. The Marines were plastering the bunkered, fortified ridgeline from the air and with artillery.

What the Marines were up against was indicated by a Communist underground fortress found the day before three miles from the Marine outpost at Con Thien. The Leathernecks uncovered a heavily camouflaged base big enough to house an enemy battalion—about 100 bunkers stocked with food and supplies.

In coastal Binh Dinh Province just south of the Marine operational zone, a company of the U.S. 1st Cavalry hit what was evidently the base camp of an elite enemy unit. The fighting began in mid-morning just to the west of main Highway 1 up the coast of Vietnam, and initial battle reports said 25 North Vietnamese regulars were killed.

Anticipated opposition to adoption of a proposed dog ordinance for the Town of Hurley failed to develop Monday night and the proposed ordinance was unanimously adopted by the four members of the town board. Supervisor Charles Relyea was absent due to illness.

When the meeting opened there were over 50 townsmen present. Alton Boyce of West Hurley, senior justice, presided in the absence of Supervisor Relyea.

Following reading of the proposed ordinance by Town Attorney Robert A. MacKinnon, comments were sought from those attending the session. When there were none forthcoming Councilman George Schroeder moved for adoption and the motion was seconded by Councilman Russell Burgess and adopted.

There had been two opinions on adoption of a dog ordinance. One was for a stringent regulation of dogs in the town and the other was for a more lenient ordinance. However, at the board meeting no controversy developed and the ordinance as originally drawn with a couple of changes suggested after a public hearing was approved by the board. The new ordinance will become effective 10 days after publication.

UR Relocation Changes Made

Kingston's Urban Renewal Agency, which is still to negotiate for 92 more properties in downtown's Broadway East urban renewal area, today announced new on-site procedure and lists 10 phases of action to resolve relocation difficulties in compliance with requirements of the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Other details affecting the downtown project and recent urban renewal developments are to be discussed at a special meeting of the KURA tonight.

New procedure as outlined today:

No family will be required to move until satisfactory off-site relocation is found. Families occupying properties which are to be demolished will be left where they are and the property they occupy repaired and maintained, as necessary, until they can be satisfactorily relocated.

A re-inspection of all Agency owned occupied and unoccupied properties will be made by Executive Director Eric Hemphill.

Must Be Cleared First
The demolition contractor will not be allowed to take down additional buildings until all debris has been hauled away and demolition areas cleared and dressed to demolition specifications.

The buildings at 120 Broadway and 100-102 Broadway will be demolished by crane. Approval to demolish these structures has been granted by the DHUD.

After the present demolition areas have been cleared, cleaned and dressed to demolition specification, the Department of Housing and Urban Development will be notified and a request will be made that the Agency be permitted to proceed with selected demolitions.

Project area residents will be invited to attend regular meetings with Agency and Relocation Office staff. Written invitation will be sent to all project residents to attend the meetings and, in addition, personal contacts and invitations will be made.

The basic purpose of the effort to explain to site residents their relocation rights under the Urban Renewal Program and to answer any specific questions which a site resident may have.

Options On 15
As requested by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Agency will proceed to acquire all remaining properties designated by acquisition in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area. The Agency has acquired 347 properties to date and has options to purchase 15 additional properties, leaving 92 properties to be negotiated.

Families residing in the Broadway East Urban Renewal Area, who are eligible for public housing, will not be required to move until Roundout Gardens is completed. Ninety-three residents from the Broadway East Area, as of this date, have applied for public housing.

Exploratory discussions with the Agency Board, City officials and Federal Housing Administration officials will begin immediately concerning the possibility of a housing development for rent supplement housing for Broadway East Land Disposition Parcel No. 16. Parcel 16 consists of one acre and is bounded by Newkirk Avenue, Maple Street, Mural Street and Hasbrouck Avenue.

Partitions will be installed in the Broadway East Relocation Office to assure site residents of privacy in their discussions with Relocation staff.

Reflect on 1917 Sinking Of Dirigo Square Rigger

BATH, Maine (AP) — The first steel sailing ship ever built in the United States, a lofty four-masted square rigger, was sunk by a German submarine 50 years ago today.

The "Dirigo"—her name, meaning "I Lead," is on the state of Maine seal—was launched in Bath Feb. 3, 1894.

The Dirigo first tasted salt spray in the twilight of the age of sail, but a few tall ships were still able to make a living plying the Atlantic and Pacific oceans with bulk cargoes.

Dirigo's fateful voyage really began in October, 1915, at Seattle when she shipped a cargo of barley for Sweden.

The war had been under way for a year and U-boat losses were mounting. Headed for neutral Sweden, her skipper felt he could make port unmolested.

After sailing the Pacific and up the Atlantic, Dirigo was captured by the British early in March 1916, off Scotland.

The British claimed her cargo was really shipped by a German agent and the Germans intended to capture the ship themselves as she neared Sweden.

A British court found that her cargo did belong to the enemy. The ship was seized but declared unfit for sea.

Blockaded Britain desperately needed any hull that could float, however, and Dirigo was returned to sea a year later. But she had hardly started to ride the Atlantic swells when a German submarine sank her off the Cornwall coast of southern England on May 31, 1917.

Dirigo was 312 feet long, of 3,000 tons, about the size of a small freighter.

Jack London, the novelist, shipped aboard once in New York and rounded the Horn to San Francisco.

It was a fairly quiet voyage as Cape Horn passages go, but the experience embellished London's colorful writing on hellish captains, stormy seas and bloody decks for the rest of his career.

Dirigo carried 13,000 square yards of canvas on her four masts, more sail than an entire yacht club fleet today. The new version of the famed schooner "America" launched recently in East Boothbay, has less than 600 square yards of sail.

The Bath Marine Museum has one of the few souvenirs left of Dirigo in this shipbuilding town. A three-foot model is on loan from the Sewell family that built her.

Museum curator Harold Brown notes a coincidence in Dirigo's ending her days within sight of the English coast.

"Her steel plates were fabricated in England. They were shipped over here and put together like a jigsaw puzzle."

Boat Stolen

Vandalism and a stolen boat was reported to the sheriff's department from Mt. St. Alphonsus, Esopus, Tuesday. Father Knoll reported the main house had been broken into some time Monday night and a window and door smashed. It was later reported that a 13 foot aluminum boat was missing. Deputy Sheriff Donald Van Aken investigated.

The population of Arkansas was 1,062 in 1810.

Senate to Study Another Election Fund Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposal to have the government pay major costs of presidential election campaigns is in the Senate spotlight not long after a related plan tied up the Senate for weeks.

The Senate Finance Committee is considering Johnson's recommendation that direct appropriations be made to finance television and radio broadcasts, newspaper advertising, camaign literature and travel expenses for presidential candidates.

Joseph W. Barr, undersecretary of the Treasury, was to be the opening witness for the administration at today's Finance Committee hearing.

The amount of subsidies, which each major party to receive an equal amount, was not suggested by Johnson. Congress last year passed a measure sponsored by Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., under which taxpayers, if they wished, could earmark $1 or their income tax payments to pay for presidential election campaign costs.

However, the 1966 act would become inoperative under a much-debated rider to a bill to restore the seven per cent investment tax credit. The final version of the tax measure has cleared the House.

The Lake Katrine Parent-Teacher Organization will hold its last meeting for the school year '66-'67 Thursday, June 1 at 8 p. m. in the school auditorium. An important part of the general meeting will be election of new officers for the coming year.

Program for the evening will be a slide presentation entitled, "Pre-Adolescents—Striving for Independence — subtitled: "What Causes Disagreements Between Parents and Pre-Adolescents." Mrs. Eliz. Overbagh, Home Economist with the Ulster County Extension Service Association, Home Economist Division, will be the guest speaker.

Refreshments will be served after the program.

Playground Plan

Started by PTO

The Port Ewen Parent Teacher Organization has launched Operation Playground according to announcement made by Mrs. Ralph Wells, chairman.

Mrs. Wells said the Port Ewen group has arranged with the makers of Instant Maxwell House coffee to receive playground equipment in exchange for innerseals from their jars. Some units require as few as 260, others over 2,000.

Playground equipment is designed by educators and psychologists of Creative Playthings Inc.

Innerseals, except the two ounce size, may be sent to the Port Ewen School, Mountainview Road or to Mrs. Wells at Box 87, Millbrook Drive, Connelly.

The potato is said to have originated in the Andes region of Peru.

Memorial Plaque for 23 Dedicated by M-WC Vols

Malden - West Camp Fire Company this week dedicated two memorial plaques listing 23 departed members of the company at memorial rites held in Malden fire station.

Many of those listed were charter members and supplied volunteer labor during the construction of the fire stations at Malden and West Camp.

Supervisor Peter M. Williams, guest speaker reviewed the history of the company and lauded the men who worked to build the fire stations and in other ways brought about the formation of the company in 1934. He cited them for their volunteer service to the community and concluded his message by reading off the 23 names on the plaques.

One plaque will be posted in Malden station, the other at West Camp firehouse.

Company Secretary Harold W. Bennett, who served as master of ceremonies introduced the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, chaplain, who offered the invocation and a prayer.

Bennett explained how the plaque memorials were initiated by a fund donation in memory of the company's late president John J. Helfert. Added donations provided the funds needed to have the plaques made.

The other company chaplain, Rev. Alfred Liberatore, pastor of Malden Methodist Church, offered the benediction. The Rev. Mr. Messersmith is pastor of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, West Camp.

The committee on arrangements included Bennett, Franklin P. Clum, president; Luther Emerick, Clarence E. Gardner, Emmett Vedder and John J. Prendergast.

Refreshments were served by members of the Ladies Auxiliary.

No Trace Yet Of Parents, Baby Left at Mart

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — The parents of a baby boy left in a shopping cart in a supermarket by an unidentified woman May 10 still have not been found, city police say.

"As far as we're concerned, the case is a dead issue," Det. Chief M. William Wilson said, after pictures of the child were circulated among police agencies in the U.S. and Canada as part of the search.

The infant, who was left in the shopping cart a few days after his birth, was placed in a foster home by welfare officials after a 10-day stay at a hospital. Wilson said Monday night there has been "absolutely nothing" in the way of concrete evidence at the present time to determine the parents' identity.

Cleaning Up Tracks

RUSH, N.Y. (AP) — Work crews continued today to repair the tracks and clean up the tons of feed corn, soybean and coal that spilled out Tuesday when nine cars of a 67-car Lehigh Valley freight train derailed in this community south of Rochester. George Kazokaz of Buffalo, a flagman on the train, suffered a slight leg injury, railroad officials said. Five other crewmen escaped injury.

ANNIVERSARY — Chester L. Feinberg, general manager of Standard Furniture Company addresses a pre-anniversary meeting of executive and sales staff of Standard stores. Feinberg outlined plans for the 66th anniversary celebration.

Area Business Marks 66 Years of Service

Standard Furniture Company celebrates its 66th anniversary with distinction of being listed in the top 50 furniture organizations in the country.

Stores in Troy, Albany and Kingston are the largest in their respective cities. William A. Feinberg, president, noted on the occasion of the anniversary this week.

Sales Are Doubled

Feinberg said that he was gratified by the response of the people of the upstate area to Standard policies which have doubled Standard's business in the past five years.

The extensive Standard organization of today started in 1901 in a most modest beginning. It was in that year, just after the turn of the century, that Abraham Feinberg started in business peddling furniture, clothing and jewelry house-to-house.

Feinberg Joins Father

Providing his customers with the best quality merchandise for the lowest price was the key stone upon which Feinberg started and operated his business, and he prospered well in following this policy so that in 1907, joined by his son, William, he opened his first store at 293 South Pearl Street in Albany. Then in 1908 his business continued to grow and necessitated larger quarters so he moved to 267 South Pearl Street. Five years later, in 1913, Standard again moved, this time to a three story building, becoming one of the leading furniture stores in Albany.

During the next 10 years the Feinbergs served the people of the Albany area well and in turn they responded with increasing patronage each year, until in 1923 Standard bought its first building at 112 South Pearl Street, which boasted 14,000 square feet. In 1925, and again in 1927, additional facilities were needed and the store was enlarged to 22,000 square feet.

Grows in Depression

Even during the depression years Standard continued to grow and in 1933 joined the Retail Stores Service, a group of independent locally owned stores formed together in a mutual association to increase purchasing power and give the customers even better buys. Today, Retail Stores Service, only one of the five buying syndicates of which Standard is a prominent member, by itself, boasts 800 of America's finest furniture stores.

In 1934 the size of the warehouse at the rear of the Albany store was tripled to handle the increasing volume and in 1936 the Albany store too was tripled by the purchase of two adjacent buildings giving the new store over 55,000 square feet of floor space, making it, as it is today, Albany's largest furnishings store.

Kingston Store Opened

From 1937 to 1939 saw continued growth and the acquisition of a 100,000 square foot warehouse, and the opening of the first branch store in Kingston. William's son, Chester, had now joined the firm, a father-son relationship which is still in full and cooperative existence today.

The people of the Upstate New York area responded to the Standard policy of better values and no charge for credit in such a gratifying manner that in 1946 Standard embarked on another expansion with opening of a third store, in Troy. Came 1948 and another Standard store was opened, this time in Schenectady.

Upstate Outlets

The following year Standard purchased a large warehouse in Troy in order to centralize all of its warehousing and delivery operations.

In 1950, a warehouse outlet was opened to fulfill a customer need for good used furniture, trade-ins, closeouts and floor samples at a fraction of original prices. The outlet store at Troy has been expanded to 20,000 square feet of space.

During the past five years, Standard has doubled its facilities by relocating the Albany, Troy and Kingston stores in modern, air-conditioned buildings. The Kingston store is at 323 Wall Street. Additional ex-

Lionel Hampton to Appear Here

Lionel Hampton and his jazz all-star orchestra will appear in Kingston High School auditorium Friday, June 16, according to an announcement by John Mazzuca, president of the Kingston Jaycees.

Proceeds from the two-hour show will benefit such local Jaycee projects as the Teenage Safe-Driving Rodeo, the junior golf and tennis tournaments, and the orphans' Christmas shopping tour. Mazzuca said that Richard Rydstrom will chair the committee handling details for the benefit, including Henry Jordan, finances; Bill Fredericks, publicity; Leo Buboltz, auditorium, and John Mazzuca, tickets.

Lionel Hampton and his group have just returned from an extensive tour of Asia and the Orient, highlighted by a visit with the king of Thailand, himself a jazz enthusiast and composer. Long a music poll-winner on vibraphone and drums, Hampton rose to fame with Benny Goodman and has led his own orchestra ever since the big-band days of the 1930's. This is believed to be his first Kingston appearance.

Tickets for the June 16 concert are already available according to Rydstrom.

5,808 Frozen Pies Face Destruction

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A federal court judge has ordered the destruction of 5,808 frozen pies, which, the government says, contains excess bacteria.

The pies are stored in a Buffalo warehouse.

The pies, of the chocolate and coconut cream variety, will either be burned or buried, federal officials said. Town Square Foods Inc., Lake City, Pa., producer of the pies, did not oppose the destruction order issued Monday by Judge John Henderson of U.S. District Court.

A spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's office said the government charged on April 25 that the "Lake Orchard" pies contained excessive coliforms, not necessarily disease-causing but evidence of unsanitary packing conditions.

Railroad Faces Trial for Oil Polluting River

with oil, faces trial in federal court on June 6, despite the railroad's plea for an extension of time. Judge John O. Henderson of U.S. District Court set the trial date Monday after denying a request for Arthur J. Maloney, a lawyer for the railroad, for the extension.

Maloney asked for the delay since the railroad was involved in a state Health Department hearing in Albany on June 9. He indicated it would be a hardship for witnesses to appear here and in Albany in a course of three days.

College Coed Held on Death Of Infant Boy

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N.Y. (AP) — A Skidmore College coed was arrested by police here Tuesday in connection with the death of an infant boy to whom she reportedly had given birth Sunday.

Police said the baby's body was found in a box at the city dump Tuesday morning by trash-collectors.

Miss Cornelia R. Owens of Cazenovia, identified by police as a freshman at the women's college, was arrested after the cardboard box was identified as having come from the campus.

The coed was taken to Saratoga Hospital and arraigned there on a charge of second-degree manslaughter by Judge Roy Walbridge of City Court.

Walbridge set bail at $5,000. Miss Owens remained in the hospital, where she was reported in good condition.

Police said an autopsy showed that the baby had been strangled with a nylon stocking shortly after birth. Police said they believed the birth took place in Miss Owens' room in Hammond House dormitory.

Police said there were no reports as to the identity of the baby's father.

Soviets Help Japan

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet naval supply ship led 13 small Japanese fishing boats 67 miles to safety after ice threatened to crush them in the Sea of Okhotsk, 1,200 miles north of Japan, Tass reported today from Magadan.

The Soviet news agency said the 2,115-ton Angara needed 36 hours for the rescue because a southwest wind closed the channel it had cut in the ice near Taygonos, on the Soviet Union's northwest coast.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, MAY 31, 1967

HAZARDS OF THE ROAD

For four years, Joseph Linko pursues his hobby of photographing road hazards whenever he found them. A 49-year-old self-employed television repair man, he gave up fishing and hunting and destroyed his business because he was not there when the calls came. He was taking some 3,000 pictures that provided evidence to a Congressional subcommittee of how errors in road building can be lethal.

Linko lives in the Bronx in New York and his pictures were taken in the metropolis, but the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads, which examined them professionally, said the conditions he exposed occur throughout the country.

What he called "gore areas"—the V-shaped sections that separate an exit lane from a highway—proved one of the most dangerous. The accident rate on these gore areas are four times that of other roadside sections where a car may run off. At the tips of many gore areas concrete lamp stanchions, signs supported by 8-inch thick steel beams or triangular guard rails pointed at oncoming cars had been erected. Photographs showed cars rammed midway back through the vehicle, crushing the occupants. They were reminiscent of military tank traps.

Guard rails along the sides of roads were shown that, instead of shielding a hazard, guided the veering motorists into the pier of an overhead bridge. There were directional signs mounted on massive and dangerous stanchions by the highway's edge only yards from overpasses where they could have been attached at a saving of $6,000 each and the elimination of the danger.

These conditions could be multiplied by thousands from coast to coast. Apparently, there is much more to car safety than a safe car and driver.

ODDS TO REACH 100

A centenarian is no longer an oddity in this country. There may be one in every town or county or group of 15,000 people. That is the ratio of the 13,000 living centenarians to the total population of the country. As of the present, the odds of reaching the age of 100 are 1 in 15,000.

Enough people are reaching and passing the age of 115 that one can figure the odds for attaining that rarified plateau, too. Of those living today, 2,000 will live to be 115 or more. This is 1 in 100,000.

These fantastic odds have become possible through a combination of factors. Preventive medicine, better diet, ease of living all play a part. Centenarians themselves add that a sense of humor, an interest in life and hard work also lead to longevity. So many wither and die when they no longer have work to occupy them, or interests to keep up their spirits!

But we do not welcome the prediction that by the year 2000 "limited rejuvenation" will provide substitutes for human organs, senses and limbs to sustain life. Living it up with zest is one thing, protracting it artificially is something else.

U.S. DEBT LIMIT

A dismal picture was painted for the nation's leading corporate figures of the prestigious Business Council by Secretary of the Treasury Henry H. Fowler. He sketched a budget deficit of at least $15 billion in fiscal year 1968 starting July 1 next. As a frame for the picture, Fowler immediately afterward asked Congress to raise the permanent debt limit by $29 billion to $365 billion. The Treasury Secretary conceded that the budget deficit for the year ending June 30 would raise to $11 billion, instead of the previous estimate of $9.7 billion. He made no new estimate of the 1968 deficit, which he had projected earlier at $8 billion.

The debt limit must be raised to enable the Administration to meet the deficit costs of the Vietnam war through the year without having to go to Congress from time to time for higher debt limits. However, the huge jump of $29 billion in the debt ceiling would encourage more domestic as well as war spending, and should not be granted in a lump sum.

The last "permanent" debt ceiling was $285 billion. In effect, it has been ignored, as a series of temporary ceilings were invoked. Better leave the permanent ceiling stand, or raise it to not more than an even $300 billion, and use the expedients of temporary ceilings through this war. There might be some hope that, after the war, a far-seeing administration might start to use the annual revenue surpluses to cut the national debt to the permanent figure, instead of piling up spending that in turn piles up taxes.

Academic pressure at increasingly young ages was blamed for the youth rebellion by Mrs. Herman Grant, editor of PTA Magazine. "Once upon a time we waited until they were in high school to put the academic screws on them," she recalled. "Today, we start in kindergarten."

Unreal Issue GOP Peril

WASHINGTON—The seemingly unending series of both chronic and fresh international crises—see Vietnam for the first instance and the Middle East for the second—is obscuring the normal political infighting of a pre-presidential election year. Nevertheless, developments of high importance are going on below the surface of mightier events.

If the sharpest of all problems for the Democrats is to find a means by which a majority can at worst calm down and at best somehow reclaim the party's peacekeeping role in Vietnam, the central need for the Republicans is to avert destructive and quite unnecessary disunion on home-grown matters.

For the greatest peril faced by the G.O.P. is not connected with overseas questions. Rather, it is the supreme necessity to allow overly doctrinal disputes on essentially unreal domestic issues to lead in turn to attempts to separate the very last Republican sheep from the very last Republican goat.

That approach is the way to party chaos, as the G.O.P. found to its cost in the 1964 national convention that nominated Barry Goldwater. That convention worked itself up into an emotional atmosphere reminiscent of a rural revival meeting in which the contending forces became outright ideological devils or positive ideological saints, depending on the point of view.

At first glance, a Republican primary election in a single state would hardly seem to qualify as of national importance. And yet, there is a national warning for the Republicans in the recent primary election in Kentucky.

There, the race for the Republican nomination for governor pitted almost overnight the seeds for avoidable troubles running far beyond Kentucky's borders. Judge Marlow W. Cook and Louie B. Nunn were contesting along ordinary lines for the nomination when suddenly the issue of religious prejudice, real or alleged, was somehow injected.

Nunn, a Protestant in a Protestant state, was accused of anti-Catholicism. Cook being a Catholic. And Nunn won. Cook's adherents complain of religious bias, though Cook himself emerged battered from the primary only to call for party unity behind Nunn in November.

Though nobody far from the scene can presume to know for certain that a "Catholic issue" was not present, there is the strongest hunch that the controlling thing here was not really religion but simply open housing. Cook was moderately liberal on this and other civil rights matters; Nunn was conservative.

The simple fact is that open housing—that is, the forced sale or rental of private property to Negroes over the objections of the owners—is demonstrably unpopular in this country in areas far removed from Kentucky or other border states, or from the South itself. One has only to look at California, for one example.

It, therefore, follows that those who continue to insist starkly that religious prejudice and that tolerance lost in Kentucky are doing no service to the Republican party. If they are not raising a false issue, they are at the very minimum raising an issue that is wholly debatable in point of fact and at any rate is undeniably harmful to the deeper interests of both party and nation.

No man should cry up racial or religious divisions unless it is absolutely certain that they exist importantly in truth and unless the stake is something far bigger than a governorship. For to do so in these circumstances is to inflame that which should never be idly charged and, inescapably, to exploit in reverse something that never should be exploited either way.

In short, what has happened in Kentucky has given the Republicans the plainest possible illustration of what should not be allowed to happen in their national campaign.

There is an abundance of rational issues, both between the two parties and within each party, without going out of the way to find more things to argue about in the deeply sensitive private area of religion.

Taste of Mid-East Things to Come

By JAMES MARLOW AP News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—In the Middle East the United States is getting a taste of things to come, and they won't be pleasant.

The years since World War II—certainly the early years when this country had an atomic monopoly and was the most powerful force on earth—may have seemed like a new era.

But gradually the postwar years have come to look like an interim period between an era that ended with the war and a new one not fully arrived yet when the United States must share its dominance with the Soviet Union and Red China.

For most of its history the United States has been the captain of the Western Hemisphere, hardly at all at first, then with increasing power and intensity although for a while abusing its power with its Latin neighbors.

Through the years it sought to keep foreign intruders out of this hemisphere and now, because of its strength and willingness to use it, can force them to stay out.

The capture of Cuba by Castro's communism was a historical break. This country was sound asleep to what Castro really meant. When it realized the mistake it backed a disastrous Cuban exile invasion to throw him out.

Even so, Castro was a kind of local boy. It was when Moscov was put in the Middle East by putting missiles in Cuba that this country fully asserted itself, ordering the Soviets out, even if it meant war.

Moscow was at a disadvantage. It was butting into something far from its home base, and it backed down.

Meanwhile, nothing showed better the end of the old era than what happened to Britain, the colonial empire and lord of the sea. It became a second-rate power unable even to continue its help to Communist-threatened Greece and Turkey.

It was then, with the doctrine of President Harry S. Truman in 1947, that the United States took over as the No. 1 force on the face of the earth. The Soviets still didn't have atomic weapons then.

In his doctrine pledging help to Greece and Turkey and all other free nations similarly endangered, Truman laid down a policy followed by his successors ever since, particularly in Vietnam.

"I believe," he said, "it must be the policy of the United States to support free peoples who are resisting attempted subjugation by armed minorities or outside pressures. I believe that we must assist free peoples to work out their own destinies in their own way."

But the Soviet Union is a great power now, and it has been working for years to have influence in the Middle East which, being on the Soviet doorstep, has the same geographical relationship to the Soviets as Latin America has to this country.

Just as the United States did, and would, resist any Soviet attempt to butt into Latin America, it seems likely now Moscow would do the same if the United States lets itself get militarily involved in the Middle East or elsewhere around the fringes of the Soviet Union.

No wonder the United States at the moment is being quiet about its intentions if the Israeli-Egyptian dispute becomes a war. Further, there's a limit on how much involvement this country can endure.

It's up to its neck in Vietnam. Does it want to do the same in the Middle East? And what if war breaks out elsewhere? Does it get involved there, too?

The world is moving toward a new era—three spheres of influence: one dominated by the United States, one by the Soviets, one by Red China which soon will be a nuclear power.

There was a time, when the United States was the No. 1 nation, when it could risk involvement around the world. No one else was a match for it. That time is passing.

Just as the United States wants the rest of the world to stay out of this hemisphere, Moscow and Red China can be expected to demand—and even more, compel—the same about the areas around them.

Urge Reforms in Fund Raising To Cut Chances of Corruption

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—At last Congress is coming to grips with the problem of how to finance political campaigns. Up to recent months, the subject has been bypassed, and many irregularities have either been condoned or overlooked.

If candidates for public office must depend on other citizens or on organizations with a vested interest in legislation to put up the money to help elect them, they will inevitably feel under some obligation to repay the favor by their acts in public office.

President Johnson has just submitted to Congress a comprehensive plan. Some of the points were made in these dispatches in August 1966, including the fact that no candidate except wealthy ones can possibly raise all the money that's needed nowadays to finance a political campaign and that the government should supply some of the funds.

Even for a presidential campaign alone the task is overwhelming. This is because large amounts are needed for television and radio and for advertisements in the newspapers as well as for travel around the country. The cost of actually raising the money has grown, too.

The President, in his message to Congress, has taken into consideration also the need for election reforms. He suggests a 5,000-dollar limit be placed on the total amount that comes from any organization or any individual or member of his family. Up to now, a citizen could contribute many times that amount by himself giving to various committees, and by having relatives do the same.

Mr. Johnson has urged, too, that corporations holding contracts with the government be prohibited from making political contributions at the state and local level. Today they are only barred from contributing to campaigns for national elections.

Mr. Johnson wisely recommends that the comptroller-general's office should be given the complete authority to obtain full reports after each presidential election as to payments that have been made and to audit the expenses of presidential campaigns. This is an innovation which is long overdue. For obviously members of committees of congress have been reluctant to investigate the finances of their own political party.

The President did not in his latest message make any proposals concerning the financing of congressional, state and local political primaries and campaigns. But he did say that there is need for an examination of the whole problem.

When a bill was passed last October by Congress permitting each individual to indicate on his income-tax return that a dollar of his tax money might be used for political contributions by either party, there was a widespread dissent. It was pointed out that the new law did not deal with misuse of political funds and that it would be a bad precedent to give the taxpayer the right to exercise any control over how his tax money shall be disbursed by the government. For this procedure might then be applied in other expenditures apart from political campaigns. The operation of the law has since been "suspended" by Congress.

In comparison with the budget of the United States government, the total cost of presidential campaigns is relatively small, but it is nevertheless a large amount for political parties to raise. The worst aspect of the existing system is that it places parties and candidates under obligation to special interests.

No organization or group of individuals should ever be permitted to wield a financial club over members of Congress or a president of the United States. Lobbying has often been carried on with the aid of campaign contributors. The prices of admission to testimonial dinners should be limited so that they will cover merely the expense of the dinner and the rental of a hall.

Much of the expense for paid broadcasts and advertisements might well be borne by the government. Certainly it would be performing a worthwhile service by using a relatively small amount of taxpayers' money to provide a method of communication between a growing population and the candidates for office.

It is evident now that the whole system of campaign contributions will be carefully reviewed, and it is to be hoped that limitations and restrictions will be imposed so that no person elected to public office will feel that he has an obligation to give special favors in one way or another to those persons who have contributed large sums for campaigning purposes.

'These Days'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

HOW BORING WILL 1967 BE?

The other day James Marlowe of the Associated Press wrote a column saying that 1967 might go down in history as the year that will be hard to remember. His gripe was that the same old things continue to happen. The same old war going on in Vietnam, to the same lack of a conclusion. The same Bobby Kennedy talking, but without making real news. The same Republican candidates—meaning Nixon and Romney—pushing the same non-campaigns. The same Republican Senators Hatfield and Percy, making idle doves, but not so insignificant in their dovishness as to cause hawkish feathers to rise. In short, a boring year.

Marlowe was accurate on the day he wrote. One hopes to Heaven that he will prove accurate for the next seven months. But 1967 could be the year that nobody who remains among the living will ever forget.

The Marlowe thesis depends for its continuing validity on the assumption that intelligence must prevail. The Arabs may hate Israel, but most of the Arab states live by oil. A big war in the Middle East would be accompanied by sabotaged oil pipelines and the loss of revenue that sustains both the sheikhs and the common people in all of the "royalist" Arab countries. Why would the "conservatives" among the Arabs want to support Egypt and Syria in a war against the Israelis when it would impoverish every last one of them? And, should the conservative Arabs listen to the voice of reason, why would the Egyptians and the Syrians take on Israel alone? The Israelis are proven fighters, with a gift for military organization. Egypt, on the other hand, can't even win its war in Yemen, where it has 50,000 troops tied up.

Turning to the other side of the world, there is Hong Kong. Why should the Red Chinese try to humiliate the British rulers of this rich Asiatic coastal enclave when it is China's economic lifeline? Without trade through Hong Kong, the Red Chinese would lose their big source of foreign exchange, and without foreign exchange they would be unable to buy necessary Canadian wheat.

Then there is Latin America. There isn't a member nation of the Organization of American States that can't see the wreck that Castroism has made of Cuba. So why should any of them tolerate the operations of Castroite guerillas in the rain forests and the hills?

The self-interest of millions should make James Marlowe's prophecy of a boring 1967 come true. But it has been the history of the Twentieth Century that nations—some nations, at any rate—can't stand boredom for more than a generation. The interval between World War I and World War II lasted just twenty-one years. And it has now been twenty-two years since the defeat of the Nazis and the Japanese.

The trouble is psychological, and the don't-give-up spirit threatens to break out all over the globe. Nasser and his Syrian allies don't seem to be economically oriented; otherwise they would not want to risk loss of Suez canal tolls and active blockade by the U.S. Sixth Fleet. The leaders of the Red Chinese may have reached the point where they must forget long-term economics in order to live for a few more months. And Castro, who hopes to provide guerrilla uprisings in Guatemala, Venezuela, Colombia, and Bolivia, has already shown by his actions in Cuba that sound economics is the last thing he ever thinks about.

In all the mess, the statecraft of Brezhnev and Kosygin, the Soviet leaders, stands out with Machiavellian sharpness. The Russians have fed Nasser and the Syrians with enough military equipment and technological help to nerve them up and edge them on. By shipping more sophisticated weapons to the North Vietnamese, Moscow manages to keep the war in Southeast Asia going while the U.S. sheds its own blood. Meanwhile, the Russians take quiet advantage of the situation in the western democracies, where peacekeepers parade and arsonists set fire to big department stores that sell American goods. And, while Castro does the talking, they keep the Cuban economy afloat.

This is the Cold War version of the old Hitler-Stalin Pact, which threw Hitler against the West without involving the Soviets. The Soviets are beyond reach in a world of limited warfare. And the break-up of the old Western alliance makes it impossible for the democracies to use the great strength which they have. Maybe western Europe, which depends on Middle Eastern oil, will rouse itself to the Nasser threat. But who will bet on it in the world that bows to the spirit of Charles de Gaulle.

Washington News

By BRUCE BLOSSAT
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA)—In the free world, South Korea is widely ignored today as a small country whose war crisis was "solved" at the negotiating table 14 years ago. It has been rubbed off the trouble slate.

Yet the "solution" reached at Panmunjon in 1953 requires this straddling land of 30 million people to maintain armed forces totaling more than 600,000—the fourth largest army in the free world.

Two-thirds of that force is constantly in the field, manning the truce demarcation line which separates South and North Korea. Maintaining the South Korean armed forces takes nearly one-third of that country's yearly budget.

The burden would be even heavier were it not for the presence of some 50,000 U.S. troops on the western end of the demarcation line. We provide the costly tanks and planes, without which contribution the South Koreans would have to spend closer to two-thirds of their budget outlay on defense.

The "solution" is hardly a happy one in other ways. More than most in the world the Koreans—South and North—feel bound together as a people. But across that demarcation line in the vicinity of the 38th parallel there is no normal linkage of any kind.

There is no trade. There is no traffic. Communications are nonexistent. In fact, the North Korean Reds are so ridged that not even the Red Cross can be used for the sending of mail.

Thus many, many Koreans with relatives across the truce line are completely cut off from them. No holiday visits like those across the Berlin wall are ever permitted.

In human terms, then, the division of Korea into two parts is shattering. For, as some high South Korean officials pointed out on a recent visit to Washington, the Koreans' aspirations for unity are probably stronger than those in Germany. Nevertheless, they have now lived as a divided people for 21 years.

The worst of it is that there are no peace and unification talks in progress, and no prospect of any. They were supposed to follow the truce talks which ended in mid-1953, but they never got off the ground.

Even if unity parleys were under way, they likely would be offering only the slenderest hopes of a real solution. Merely to achieve an arrangement to stop the fighting and return prisoners required 575 separate talking sessions spread over two years and 17 days.

Long ago the Reds violated the arrangement by building up their military forces and denying to authorized truce teams their right to inspection. Red infiltration of South Korea goes on steadily. Many shooting episodes involve Red soldiers who are escorted infiltrators through the lines.

So, though South Korea grows admirably on the economic front, it lives in a state of rigid tension—divided from its "other self," to the north and always on the guard. That it must do so is hardly a triumph for the negotiating process as practiced by the free world.

Morse School Presents Play

The fifth grade class of Miss Doris Ives presented a play based on Phyllis G. Rodd's 'The Intruders', at the Grant D. Morse School, May 18. The program centered around the theme of more thoughtful conservation of wild life.

The narration was given by Kathy Baran who introduced the play and the characters as they appeared in the performance. Man was played by David Buntele and his wife by Vera Harvey. Carole Hewitt and Robin Knecht. Man was building a home on the edge of the woods and on the beach. After he left with his family, the animals and birds met to decide their fate in this situation. The king, a cougar, decided to leave but advised his subjects to stay. This part was taken by Timothy Meggison. The small birds who put up some argument to and for man were the gulls enacted by Kerry McMahon and Garry Whitaker; the juncos bird by John Reader; the chickadee, Stephen Wodzinski; the kingfisher, Linda Wager; the ruby-throated hummingbird by Toni Franchini and the heron by Bonnie Lou Osborne. The wise owl, portrayed by William Wilhelm, attempted to account for the arguments. Other furry members of the council were the racoons, played by Ronald Ricketson, Michael Abate, and Paul Zmyarch, the minks, Scott Olsen, Rachel Fetherston and David Conlon. Kathy Hall and Jeffrey Houtman represented the deer.

All of the actors wore appropriate headpieces which they made for the program.

A teenager booked recently on a larceny charge is due for grand jury hearing and one of two others booked on charges Tuesday was sentenced in city court today.

Michael Staccio, 16, of Route 1, Box 416, Kingston, charged with theft of a car May 19, waived hearing before City Judge Hubert A. Richter for grand jury action. He is charged with having taken the car of Gerald Schatzel, of 148 O'Neil Street, Attorney Charles J. Saccoman appeared for him in court today and Assistant District Attorney James H. Fisher for the prosecution.

Francis Long, 16, of 9 Susan Street, and Frank Gulick, 16, of 199 Greenkill Avenue, were booked on charges Tuesday afternoon after a reported fracas on Central Broadway. They were charged with disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. The charges were lodged by Sgt. Gurnsey Burger and Officer Ernest Bartroff.

Both pleaded guilty in city court today. Long was sentenced to 30 days in jail on each charge to be served concurrently and sentence to Gulick was put over to June 24, the end of his school term.

Robert Wade, past Captain Raymond Teitler, Edmund Lewis Jr. and Robert Wolven. Saugerties has four men at the Firemen's Home. They are Joseph Evans, Guy Phillips, Samuel Vanderbeck and Sidney (Doc) White. Residents are asked not to forget the firemen who sacrificed their free time for the safety of the community and are further requested to drop a card or a letter to the men at the Home, or better, visit some of them.

Bell to Speak At Marblertown

H. Clark Bell, attorney and local representative to the Constitutional Convention, will speak to the Marblertown Republican Club Thursday night at the Stone Ridge American Legion Hall.

His topic is to be the effect that the convention will have on local, county and state laws and regulations.

Clark is well known throughout the area as an authority on local representation and has given many speeches on the convention to various organizations.

Meeting time is 8 p. m. and the public may attend. Refreshments will be served.

One Bid Made For Purchase of Vote Machines

Only one bid was received today by Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan for purchase of 35 voting machines.

It was from the American Voting Machine Company, of Jamestown and offered sale of the machines at $1,701 each plus an allowance of $50 for old machines turned in and accepted by the company.

Purchase of the machines at the rate given will involve a bond issue of over $50,000 which is expected to be considered by the Common Council at its June 6 meeting.

The 35 machines, if purchased, will replace all but a few of the present machines some of which are over 30 years old.

Hadassah Notes Beneficiaries of Special Drive

A children's village located on Israel's borders, a medical center ready for any emergency—these are the installations that will benefit from a special drive now underway by the Kingston Chapter of Hadassah.

Two infants die in Buffalo blaze

Two young children perished today in a fire that swept their family's apartment in a two-story house on the city's east side.

They were Merle and Paul Scott, two of six children of Mr. and Mrs. James Scott. Merle was about 4 and Paul 3.

Children from another family, about to leave for school, spotted smoke pouring from the frame dwelling and sounded the alarm.

The cause of the fire was not determined. The damage was not estimated immediately.

The house was at 131 Sherman St.

Benjamin Franklin only had two years of schooling, between the ages of 8 and 10.

Mrs. Arthur Landesman, maximum safety of patients and all personnel; this means today that the local group is joining with all other chapters of the women's Zionist organizations in a massive effort to help Israel in its current crises. All Hadassah members and other interested persons in the Kingston community are urged to contribute to the special fund.

In a letter to the local group, Mrs. Mortimer Jacobson, national president, noted that "Israel is now fully mobilized. Hadassah's Medical Center hospital is preparing to act in any emergency. Medicine, drugs, linens, surgical equipment must be in full supply. Arrangements must be made for the Emergency Fund."

National Hadassah has asked that each make a personal contribution of $18, which is significant for Jews since the number in Hebrew, "chai," also means "life." Special donations should be sent immediately to Mrs. Alvin Motzkin, treasurer, Kingston Chapter of Hadassah, RD 5, Box 18A; checks should be made payable to Hadassah Emergency Fund.

PEERS DISAPPROVE — Circulation among her fellow judges of a secret resolution designed to ensure Municipal Judge Noel Cannon for allegedly seeking "personal publicity" was revealed at the County Courthouse in Los Angeles. Judge Cannon, clad in a mod mini dress for a press conference she called to give her views as to how woman might protect themselves if attacked, said it is a judges right and duty to speak out on public matters and to take a stand on them. Local Delegate Attends Birth Defects Parley

Over fifty Eastern New York State March of Dimes volunteer leaders including one from Kingston attended a workshop conference at Canoe Island Lodge, Lake George Thursday and Friday.

The conference was part of the National Foundation's efforts to create public understanding of the problems of birth defects and the importance of good pre-natal care.

George P. Voss, vice president for public relations for the National Foundation addressed the group and stated that, "From one third to one half of the women who are delivered in our major municipal hospitals fail to see a physician until they are in labor."

"To you and me the idea that a woman should receive medical care during pregnancy is as simple as two and two, yet it means little or nothing to some that healthy mothers usually have healthy babies. Nor do some seem to worry lest they are what are called high risk mothers, women with diabetes, for example, or RH factor incompatibility."

"We of the National Foundation, March of Dimes, believe that every child has a right to be born healthy, and we must do everything humanly possible to make this a reality."

Voss also spoke of the work done at the Salk Institute where there are approximately 50 scientists and doctors working under the direction of Dr. Jonas Salk and of the work done at the 80 Birth Defects Centers throughout the United States, including hospitals of New York State working as a team to prevent birth defects. Annual research grants are given every year in the birth defects and related fields.

Ulster County was represented by Meyer Kaplan, chapter chairman. Kaplan indicated that Ulster County Volunteers are currently engaged in a program of education, stating that, "Our chapter has a vital role to play, that of creating a climate in which every woman seeks care for her unborn baby."

To Rebuild Pavilion
MONTREAL (AP) — Work will begin immediately to rebuild the interior of the National Chinese pavilion at Expo 67, which was ruined by fire Tuesday, said Ching Yen-chang, the pavilion's commissioner-general.

Ching said the interior, including an exhibit of art works, was a total loss. Damage was estimated at $200,000, but no value was put on the loss.

No signs of arson were discovered in a preliminary police investigation. Firemen said no one was injured.

Third Major Fire
BRUSSELS (AP) — Belgium's third major fire in nine days destroyed a paper and cardboard factory in suburban Jette Tuesday night. No casualties were reported.

The worst of the fires occurred May 22 in a crowded department store in downtown Brussels, killing at least 300 persons. The second broke out just Sunday in a warehouse of the Brussels Opera, destroying valuable stage sets. Arson was suspected.

Reid, Others Laud Vols for Village Help

Mayor Joseph S. Reid, of Rosendale, has announced he has been informed that State Aid to the village was going to be withheld until the payment of monies due the State Civil Defense Dept. for rental of the pipes and equipment which were used for emergency supply.

It seems, Reid said, that the previous mayor made no provision for the payment of this rental fee nor did he make any provisions for the return of the equipment after repeated requests to do so, Mayor Reid reports he immediately went to Albany since there was no inventory of the pipes and equipment in the village records. He was given a complete file containing a copy of every communication since the equipment was first applied for in 1964.

He was also instructed to assemble all the equipment in one place to be inspected by the state agency from which it was loaned, and after inspection the equipment is to be returned to the depot from which it came. Arrangements have been made, Reid goes on, as to satisfactory settlement of the past due rental fees which amounted to $104 per month.

In order to forestall any further accumulation of rental fees, Reid continued he appealed for voluntary help in disassembling the pipelines and hauling them to one place for the inspection by the state.

Reid and village trustees Joseph LaFera and William Ritter said that they were amazed and pleased by the turnout of volunteer labor on Sunday. There was well over 30 men and there was a truck supplied by the Hurley Sand and Gravel Corp. at no cost to the village taxpayers.

Reid said that it was a wonderful feeling to see and to work with such a group of community-minded people who gave of their own time and energy to accomplish this task for the village.

Kingston Ranks 15th in State On School Rates

Albany, May 29 — A comparison of full value school tax rates in 60 upstate cities showed Kingston ranking 15th from the top according to a study issued today by the Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, a private tax research organization.

The rate for Kingston the Survey reported is $16.98 per $1,000 full value for the fiscal year ending in 1967. The actual tax rate paid, however, is based on assessed value. For 1966-67, that actual tax rate for school purposes was $45.88 per $1,000 assessed value compared with $40.21 for 1965-66, (an increase of $5.67).

School tax rates increased in 45 of the State's 60 upstate cities from 1966 to 1967, remained the same in 3 cities, and decreased in 12 cities.

Wilson Weighs Plan to Delegates For More Power

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Acting Gov. Malcolm Wilson weighed the possibility today of asking the Constitutional Convention to recommend slightly expanded power for the state's No. 2 executive post.

As delegates gathered today to resume activities after a holiday-lengthened weekend, Wilson prepared to appear Thursday before a convention committee looking into the operations of the executive branch.

The Republican lieutenant governor was invited to offer information and suggestions — specifically concentrating on the duties of the lieutenant governor — designed to help the convention draft a new basic charter for New York State.

He is acting governor while Gov. Rockefeller vacations in Venezuela.

On today's agenda, top priority went to resolving a difficulty over a delegate's seat from The Bronx. Democrat Alfred E. Santangelo, a former congressman, planned to appeal directly to the convention if the convention Judiciary Committee should recommend any action to deny him his seat.

The Court of Appeals ruled two weeks ago that Santangelo and Conservative Republican Charles E. Rice fought to a tie in the November election battle for a seat from the 29th District. And later, the State Board of Canvassers rescinded its earlier action in certifying Santangelo as the winner.

In Albany Monday, Santangelo said he understood that U. S. Rep. Paul Fino, R-N.Y., was considering running against Santangelo if Gov. Rockefeller calls a special election to settle the problem.

Santangelo said he had heard reliably that Fino was considering the move in the belief that he could defeat Santangelo and assure a Democratic defeat.

The hearing at which Wilson is slated to testify is one of several scheduled by convention committees this week.

Wilson told The Associated Press he might propose a constitutional change to give the lieutenant governor the power to cast a tie-breaking vote on final passage of legislation before the State Senate.

The lieutenant governor presides at Senate sessions and has the power to cast a tie-breaking vote on bills up for first passage.

Otherwise, Wilson said, he planned to recommend no substantial changes in the section dealing with the powers and duties of the lieutenant governor.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Fitness to Be Theme for June

June will be fitness month for Cub Scouts while Boy Scouts will be learning survival techniques, according to Donald Crout, Scout Commissioner of the Rip Van Winkle Council, Boy Scouts of America.

The program themes are Feats of Skill for Cub Scout packs and Nature Know-How for Boy Scout troops. The month's highlight for Boy Scouts will be a Live Off the Land overnight camp.

"Activity and exercise contribute to strong boys," Crout said, "so 10-year old Cub Scouts will demonstrate a series of physical tests from the Fit for Tomorrow program of the Boy Scouts of America while 8 and 9-year-olds will have related activities based on their age."

The 10-year-olds will practice sit-ups, pull-ups, standing broad jump, 50-yard dash, and a 600-yard run. The younger boys will work on such feats of skill as sit-ups, hang tag, pull-ups, push-ups, running broad jump, and swimming. A Feats of Skill Olympics will be the main feature of the monthly Cub Scout pack meeting.

Commissioner Crout said, "The Boy Scouts will feature as part of their month's activities such advancement skills as tree and animal identification, edible wild plants, camp making, and patrol cooking. Boy Scout troops will also promote Fly the Flag for Flag Day on June 14."

Suggested Explorer activities in June will see the high-school age members of the Boy Scouts of America taking part in Safe Weight Lifting, and refresher training in the Ready emergency service preparedness program, Crout said.

New Farm Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new scientific technique involving the use of remote sensing equipment developed in the space program may be applicable to agriculture and if it is, scientists say, the impact could be more significant than atomic energy and the computer.

"This is the greatest breakthrough I have ever seen in my life," said Dr. George L. Mehren, assistant secretary of agriculture. Mehren referred to the application of the remote sensing techniques to identify within minutes soil conditions and moisture, crop yield, and the incidence and severity of plant disease.

CHESTER L. FIENBERG
General Manager

It took 1,106 years of combined furniture knowledge to help us reach our 66th birthday. The men and women shown on this page have a total of 1,106 years of experience in the furniture business. These people . . . your friends and neighbors . . . are what we call the "Standard Family," and we're especially proud of them on this, our 66th Birthday.

It's a lot of fun having birthdays, particularly when it's the 66th. We were pretty excited when we hit the 33rd . . . a third of a century seemed like a lot of years. Then came the golden one—fifty years—and our chests really swelled with pride. And now, two-thirds of a century has passed since my father first started selling furniture, perhaps to your folks or grandparents. It's been a great experience!

Today Standard is upstate New York's largest furniture organization—one of the big ones in the whole country. I think the reasons for climbing from nowhere to somewhere are pretty basic—and important to you as well as to us:

- 1) Standard is a family affair—the same Fienberg family runs it as always—so while we're a chain of stores, we're local too.
- 2) We've never gone hi-hat—all of our efforts are still directed toward Mr. & Mrs. wage-earner. We've spent 66 years learning what you want and need.
- 3) We offer you wide selections in big airconditioned stores—and the prices are clearly marked, too.
- 4) Our salespeople are well trained in today's modern merchandising trends.
- 5) We don't pile on those bigger, and bigger finance charges—you only pay for what you buy.
- 6) We belong to more national buying groups than any firm we know (over a billion dollars of purchasing power) to get better values for you.

All our people are being reminded constantly that the most important thing we can have is your good-will.

Yes, they're pretty basic—and we think they're good for both of us.

Come on in and celebrate the 66th with us—we'll both be glad you did.

Thanks for 66 Wonderful Years,

Sincerely

William A. Fienberg

President

Relinquishes Viet Command Of Marine Force

DA NANG, Vietnam (AP) — Lt. Gen. Lewis W. Walt relinquished command of the 75,000-man U.S. Marine force in South Vietnam today, expressing sorrow at leaving "the finest, most challenging command the Marine Corps has ever had."

Walt's successor as commander of the 3rd Marine Amphibious Force, Maj. Gen. Robert E. Cushman Jr., was promoted to lieutenant general at the ceremony. His third stars were pinned on by Walt and Army Gen. William C. Westmoreland, commander of all U.S. forces in South Vietnam.

Westmoreland presented the Distinguished Service Medal to Walt and then praised the 54-year-old Marine as a man "at most unique in professional ability and an officer of great courage."

Walt will become personnel director of the Marine Corps in Washington after having served two years in Vietnam.

A British Foreign Office spokesman in London stressed, however, that Britain and other Western powers are still concentrating on a search for a diplomatic settlement.

Informants said a naval escort would not necessarily mean the use of force but might make Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser think twice about trying to turn back shipping to Elath.

The British aircraft carrier Hermes, two frigates and five minesweepers of the Royal Navy were reported in the vicinity of Aden, at the southern entrance to the Red Sea. British newspapers have reported that two U.S. destroyers also are in the Red Sea area, in addition to the 6th Fleet and the Royal Navy that are expected to rendezvous soon in the eastern Mediterranean.

Adm. Martin refused to say whether the U.S. carrier Intrepid, now in the Mediterranean, might be ordered to go through the Suez Canal. The Intrepid, with 70 attack planes, was originally bound for Vietnam but has been held in the Mediterranean. It is the only carrier in the area small enough to pass through the canal and could be used to bolster Western naval strength in the Red Sea and in the area of the Gulf of Aden.

Martin acknowledged that the Middle East crisis has altered 6th Fleet training plans. The carriers America and Saratoga, which usually operate at least 200 miles apart, were brought within a mile of each other off northern Crete Monday for a close-order operation. The maneuver had been planned for later this year.

Adm. Geis said his amphibious task force, which includes 1,500 Marines and five M48 tanks, will remain near Crete for the time being and await developments.

Nasser tightened the squeeze on Israel another notch Tuesday, signing a mutual defense pact in Cairo with his old enemy King Hussein of Jordan.

Nasser posed smilingly with the Jordanian monarch whom he had denounced less than a month ago as an agent of American intelligence. The two leaders, called each other "brothers" and pledged to combine their military forces against Israel in a five-year renewable pact.

"The world will be astonished today when it hears of this agreement," Nasser said after the signing.

"This is proof that Arabs forget their differences at serious times," said Nasser. "Israel, the United States and Britain must realize that we are determined to preserve our rights in Palestine."

The boy was knocked to the ground and suffered from abrasions and contusions to the head. He was taken to Benedictine Hospital.

Trooper Crowley investigated. Joseph Hassett, 45, of Kingston, was traveling east on Route 213 near Kingston at 4:45 p. m. Tuesday when he swerved to avoid hitting a motorcycle.

The Hassett car went off the road and struck a telephone pole.

Hassett was taken to Benedictine Hospital suffering from lacerations of the forehead.

Stae Trooper Malloy was at the scene.

On Tuesday at 5 p. m. a car driven by Giuseppe Paliaga, 61, of New York City, struck Joanne Stonehouse, 14, of Weehawken, N. J. as she was walking on the westbound lane of Route 212 near Saugerties.

Miss Stonehouse suffered a back injury and abrasions to the body and was taken to Kingston Hospital.

Death Toll Sets Record
The accidental death toll topped the previous high of 42 for a 102-hour Memorial Day period set in 1961. That mark included 28 traffic deaths, three drownings and 11 deaths in other types of accidents.

Local Death Record

'Another Viet?'

Nasser Move Tied To Gamble on U.S.

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD
CAIRO (AP) — President Gamal Abdel Nasser appears to be gambling on American reluctance to become involved in another Vietnam in the Middle East.

Nasser has said he chose the time for his challenge to Israel. It has become evident that this timing depended not only on Egypt's state of military readiness but also on the situation of the United States.

Nasser's excuse for moving 80,000 troops into the Sinai Peninsula and Gaza was an alleged Israeli plan to invade Syria. But he could have found some such excuse any time.

The belief in Cairo is that Nasser gave the order to advance when U. S. commitments in Vietnam had swollen and the Johnson administration's political posture at home and around the world was weakened by criticism of its Southeast Asian policy.

Though not expressed publicly, Arab reasoning appears to be that Johnson cannot afford the political burden of another military intervention.

Nasser has made plain he is well aware of the risk he is taking. He expresses respect for U. S. military power, as represented in this part of the world by the nuclear-armed 6th Fleet carrying Marine landing units. So he has "invited" the United States to keep out — to stay neutral.

In effect, he has said that if the United States keeps its hands off, he will confine any war to a straight fight between the Arabs and the Israelis. On the other hand, he has made much of Soviet professions of friendship for the Arabs.

If any other country intervenes, says Nasser, the conflict will become wider, meaning an American-Soviet confrontation. Nasser has made big gains so far, and he claims to have a Soviet guarantee that he will be allowed to keep them.

Boostered by the Soviets, Nasser says he will not negotiate on what he has taken back — particularly military control of the Gulf of Aqaba, Israel's only outlet to the Red Sea.

Nasser regards the issue of free navigation in the gulf as dead. Having put Egypt in command of positions held before the 1956 Suez invasion, he is now talking about restoring the situation to what it was in 1948.

That was the year when the Egyptians were humiliatingly defeated by the Israelis. Nasser, who was a colonel in that disastrous campaign, has never forgotten it.

People who know him well say the traumatic experience has colored his thinking ever since. In speaking of going back to 1948, Nasser shows he is not only seeking revenge for the 1956 Suez invasion, when he was president, but also the destruction of Israel. That, in effect, is what is meant by Nasser's demand for the return to their homes of a million Palestinian refugees.

This does not necessarily mean action next week. Nasser has said he is prepared to wait one year or ten years to achieve this objective.

The Egyptian president obviously feels he holds the best hand of cards. He can wait the outcome of present diplomatic efforts to avert war in the Middle East. If they turn out satisfactorily for him, he can wait — as he says he can — before his next move against Israel.

Meanwhile there are bound to be incidents on the explosive border, as there was Monday. Nasser can play them down, or if things are going badly for him, on the diplomatic field, use one of them to heighten tension more or even trigger war.

Slate Thursday Meet on Status Of Fire Station

A Downtown committee preparing to get action in the Common Council at its June 6 meeting to reopen the Cornell Fire Station, Abel Street, will hold its fourth meeting Thursday at 8 p. m. at the Recreation Center, 97 Broadway.

A petition has been circulated to gain an impressive list of signatures to present to the Common Council when Alderman Edward Norton (D) Seventh Ward, submits a resolution asking that the fire station be reopened.

It has been closed during warmer months in recent years because of a fire department manpower shortage.

All persons interested in reopening the fire station are asked to attend the Thursday meeting. The committee is headed by the Rev. James Priest, of the Progressive Missionary Baptist Church, Hone Street.

Unaware Name Was Considered For Ambassador

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — Albuquerque lawyer Benigno C. Hernandez, who has no diplomatic experience and never has been to South America, says he doesn't know why President Johnson selected him to be the next U.S. ambassador to Paraguay.

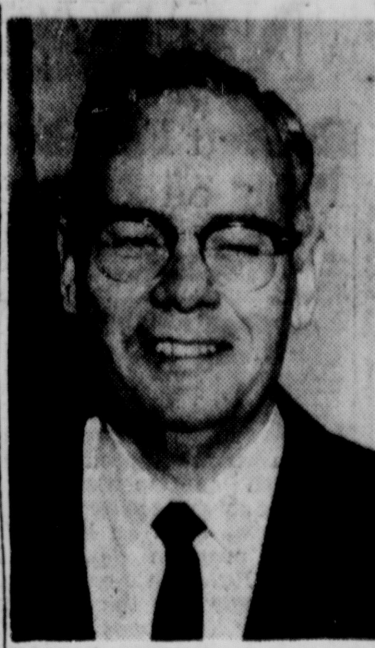

Johnson announced Tuesday he would nominate Hernandez, 49, to succeed William P. Snow, a career diplomat who is returning to Washington. The appointment is subject to Senate confirmation.

Hernandez said the first he heard of the nomination was two weeks ago when the State Department advised him he was under consideration. "They didn't say how they got my name," he said.

On Tuesday a "Mr. Cox from the White House called and said I had been selected. I'm very honored," Hernandez said.

Hernandez, who served four years on the New Mexico Board of Finance and was a Navy aviation instructor during World War II, said he would go to Washington Thursday to meet with State Department officials. He is a member of two national advisory committees, the Health, Education and Welfare Department's committee on rehabilitation and an Office of Economic Opportunity committee on poverty.

Martin Van Buren, who served from 1837 to 1841, was the first president born under the United States flag.

REV. C. PERSHING HUNTER

Local Pastor Named Head of Dutchess Area

The pastor of St. James Methodist Church, the Rev. C. Pershing Hunter, has been appointed superintendent of Hudson East District of the New York Annual Conference of the Methodist Church.

Announcement was made today by Bishop Lloyd C. Wicke who said the Rev. Mr. Hunter will assume his new post June 24 on the final day of conference sessions at the University of Bridgeport, Conn.

Pastor Here Since 1959
The Rev. Mr. Hunter, long associated with the Kingston area, has been pastor of the uptown church since 1959. He has been an active member of the Kingston Area Council of Churches serving on a number of committees.

In the Hudson North District, he has served on board of church locations and the committee on ministerial training and qualifications. In the New York Conference, the Rev. Mr. Hunter is a member of the committee on nominations and the Conference Development Crusade.

Served in Mt. Kisco

Prior to coming to Kingston, the Rev. Mr. Hunter was pastor of the Mt. Kisco Methodist Church for 12 years. He received his final ordination at St. James Church in 1945 and served pastorates in Grand Gorge, Gilboa, Pine Plains and Millerton before the Mt. Kisco assignment.

His wife is the former Louise Denman whom he married at Hurley in 1942. Two of their three children were born in Kingston.

The Hunters will make their home in Poughkeepsie. Other local Methodist appointments will be made at the annual conference which will be held from June 20 to 24.

Files $100,000 Suit In Buffalo Raid Case

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — One of 36 men arrested May 8 in a raid on what police first described as a "Little Apalachin" meeting has filed a $100,000 false arrest suit in federal court.

Joseph Todaro, 43, of the Town of Tonawanda, filed the suit Monday against Neil J. Welch, special agent in charge of the Buffalo FBI office, Capt. Kenneth Kennedy of the city police vice squad and detective Joseph Tuttolomondo.

All 36 men, including seven linked with the Cosa Nostra, were charged with conspiring with known criminals. The charges were dismissed the next day at a city court hearing on the grounds of insufficient information in the accusations.

Todaro claims in his suit that he was host at a party in Parnassus Lounge in Buffalo to celebrate the future marriage of his son, Joseph Todaro Jr., when the raid occurred. He said he feared police harassment would not stop with the single raid but would be continued when his son was to be married Tuesday.

No raid was staged Tuesday, police said.

The suit also states that the arrest deprived him of rights guaranteed by the First, Fourth, Fifth, and 14th Amendments of Constitution, including the right of privacy and equal protection of the laws.

Todaro also said he was the subject of numerous newspaper articles impugning his integrity and that he received abusive letters and phone calls, all of which caused mental and emotional strain to him and his family.

He asked for a judgment that the defendants violated his constitutional rights by harassing, intimidating, detaining and arresting him.

Police referred to a convention of 60 underworld figures and friends at Apalachin, N.Y. in November, 1957 in calling the meeting a "Little Apalachin" conference.

The watermelon has been cultivated for more than 4,000 years, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Gottschalk Wins Kleinert Award

The Hermine E. Kleinert Award, established 23 years ago as an annual prize for local sculptors and painters, has been awarded to Dan Gottschalk for 1967.

Woodstock artist Gottschalk has served as chairman of the Woodstock Artists Association, and was a prize winner last year at the regional exhibition at the Albany Institute of History and Art.

He has had one-man shows in Woodstock and New York City, and an exhibit last year at Parnassus Square here attracted attention for a portrait of folksinger Bob Dylan and a painting taking its title from a Dylan composition, "Blowin' in the Wind." In recent years, Gottschalk has made trips to Ossabaw Island and Israel and executed paintings in both places.

The Kleinert Award is made each year on the May 17 birthday anniversary of the late Hermine E. Kleinert, a long-time resident of Woodstock and a painter in her own right. The long list of artists who have received this award composes a roster of dedicated men and women, who have had impressive and distinguished careers in the field of the arts. The Kleinert Gallery here was built in memory of Hermine E. Kleinert by her niece, Mrs. James Marshall, who also makes the award possible.

JAKARTA (AP) — Thirty members of Indonesia's Parliament sharply criticized acting President Suharto today, accusing him of trying to recreate a dualism of power with ousted President Sukarno.

The statement took issue with Gen. Suharto's recent order allowing Sukarno to wear the uniform of the president at state functions.

Bennett Faculty Meets on Inquiry

Ronald Vanni, elementary principal of Reginald Bennett School, conducted a special staff meeting related to the theme of "The Process of Inquiry" this month.

Approximately 15 faculty members were involved in this session which explored a unique approach to teaching pupils problem solving techniques. Emphasis was upon an innovative science program designed by Science Research Associates to teach children to think critically as they learn basic principles of physics. Teachers participated in a simulated learning situation that involved them in several "problem episodes."

In an actual inquiry session pupils are presented with an event that is not consistent with their expectations of what should happen. This problem event gives the pupil a powerful motive to inquire and seek an explanation that would eliminate the discrepancy.

Bennett staff members proved to be active inquirers in their simulated problem situation. After a round of exciting data gathering questions by the faculty, they arrived at excellent reasons why the discrepant event in question took place.

Leon Greenberg, curriculum consultant from Ulster County BOCES staff, was invited to introduce and demonstrate concepts behind the inquiry development program. This is one of many instructional improvement services offered to the central schools of Ulster County by the curriculum center.

According to Vanni, the faculty indicated definite interest in the potentials of this problem solving approach. Mrs. Lee Pettie, Mrs. Suzanne Cottler, Miss Jean Slavik, Mrs. Charlotte Hearn and Mrs. Helen Turk, teachers in Reginald Bennett Elementary School, will be receiving "Inquiry Sampler Kits" as soon as they become available. These teachers are planning to explore the potentials of inquiry methods for possible use with their own pupils.

200 Attended Onteora Confab

Over 200 teachers, administrators, and members of the Board of Education attended the second district-wide curriculum conference sponsored by Onteora Teachers' Association and held at the Central High School building last week.

At the general session, Robert Peterson, field representative for NYSTA, examined the role professional negotiations will fill in the educational process under the new law recently signed by Governor Rockefeller. Ralph Breakell, Assistant Superintendent in charge of business management, explained the effect this new legislation will have on retirement benefits available to teachers in New York State.

Individual subject matter workshops in art, business education, English, guidance, health, home economics, industrial arts, language, library, mathematics, music, physical education, science, and social studies followed the general session. These workshops afforded the teaching staff of the Onteora Central School District an opportunity to meet and exchange ideas in order to keep pace with the constantly changing demands of present-day education, it is felt.

Thomas A. Bradley, vice-president of Onteora Teachers' Association and chairman of the curriculum conference, feels the board of education is to be congratulated for its policy which makes such district-wide meetings possible at Onteora.

McEwen, Former Hamilton Head, Succumbs at 60

CLINTON, N.Y. (AP) — Robert Ward McEwen, who retired last June after 17 years as president of Hamilton College, died Tuesday night in St. Luke's Memorial Hospital in nearby Utica after a lengthy illness. He was 60.

McEwen, who was the 14th president of the college, stepped down from the post after he suffered a heart attack in March. He was retired officially two months later.

The educator was ordained into the Presbyterian ministry in 1930 and taught religious history at Hamilton before assuming the president's job. Hamilton is a private college for men.

McEwen was born in Loud City, Neb. He received his bachelor of arts degree from Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn. McEwen also held a bachelor of divinity degree from McCormick Theological Seminary, Chicago, and master's and doctor's degrees from the University of Chicago.

McEwen leaves his widow, Marjorie, and two daughters, Mrs. Arthur Content of Washington, D.C., and Mrs. Marvin Halpern of San Francisco.

Funeral arrangements were not available immediately.

VALHALLA, N.Y. (AP) — A 7-year-old girl died Tuesday night at Grasslands Hospital of injuries suffered Monday in an auto crash near Briarcliff Manor on the Taconic Parkway.

She was Mallory Switzer of 828 Bronx River Rd., Bronxville.

Radio Hams Tune in Home For GI's; All Except One

ABOARD U.S.S. SANCTUARY, Off Vietnam (AP) — A "mean ham from Watts," in Los Angeles, is jamming calls from wounded servicemen aboard the Sanctuary to their families in the United States.

The Sanctuary, a hospital ship just off the Vietnamese coast, is filled with wounded American Marines and soldiers from the battlefields.

Every night about 20 radio calls from patients on the ship are picked up by ham operators on the U.S. West Coast. The hams place long distance calls to the families of the wounded men and connect the radio signals into the telephone line.

"All the hams are great except for that mean guy from Watts," said Navy Lt. Val Galasyn of Canterbury, Conn., a doctor who is largely responsible for the service.

When the Sanctuary arrived in mid-April, the operator from Watts was helpful.

"But once he got our confidence, he started jamming our calls," Galasyn said. "He would take our call, patch in the telephone line to a guy's family and just as the conversation began there would be this terrible racket so nobody could hear. It sounded as if he was playing an oscillator into the transmitter."

"You can imagine what that meant to a wounded guy out here thousands of miles from home trying to talk to his mom or wife. We don't know why he does it, he just does it."

The Watts operator sometimes does not show up for days. Then he comes on and follows the Sanctuary station as it tries to escape him by changing frequency.

"All the other guys are fantastic," said Galasyn. His team of operators are Radiomen George Beaver of Palmdale, Fla., Frank "Smoke" Slover of Rome, Ga., and Electrician Jim Lehooni of San Leandro, Calif.

Among the hardest working hams on the other end who receive only personal satisfaction for their long hours of work are Jim and Dean in Los Angeles, George in Hollywood, Frank in Van Nuys, Syd in Berkeley, Cal in Portland, Ore., and Gerri in Seattle.

Group for Peace Slates Speaker For June Parley

Dr. Richard Hathaway, associate professor of English at State University of New York at New Paltz, will address the Ulster County Peace Committee at a public meeting to be held Thursday, June 1, 8:15 p. m. at the AME Zion Church, Franklin Street, Kingston.

Dr. Hathaway who received his BA from Oberlin College and MA from Harvard, was awarded his PhD at Western Reserve University. Active in peace movements, Dr. Hathaway is chairman of Education for Peace and World Affairs Committee of the New York Meeting of the Society of Friends.

The Ulster County Peace Committee has engaged upon a program with a view to disseminating the historical facts underlying the country's present involvement in Vietnam. Toward this end monthly meetings have been scheduled at which distinguished men and women will be guest speakers. The public may attend.

Summons Given Following Crash

The operator of one of two cars involved in an accident in Woodstock Monday about 4:45 p. m. was issued a summons by Deputy Sheriff Donald Van Aken for failure to yield right of way. John M. Dougherty, 28, of 5 Sled Hill Road, Woodstock, was issued the summons after his car and that of Walter VanWagenen, 62, of 135 Tinker Street, Woodstock, were involved in an accident at the corner of Route 212 and Pine Grove.

Van Wagenen was proceeding over Route 212 and the Dougherty car was entering from Pine Grove when the cars collided. No injuries were reported.

Katie Makes The Difference At Film Party

By BOB THOMAS

AP Movie-Television Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The end of a movie's shooting is like a small death.

An intimate association suddenly comes to an end. A hundred people who have worked, fought and created together find their lives are now asunder, and they may never see each other again.

End-of-the-picture parties are often the scenes of fistfights and sentiment. No recent party was more sentimental than the one held for the closing of "Guess Who's Coming for Dinner."

The setting was the same. The tables set up on the stage where most of the shooting had taken place. The free-flowing bar, the slapping of backs and the remember-whens. The worry on the faces of those who wondered where their next picture was coming from.

But this party was different. What made it so was the presence of Katharine Hepburn, a cherished original among film stars. Rarely seen at a party of any sort, she nevertheless mingled among all the guests, her freckles shining, her lean figure in the customary white slack suit, she clutching a pound box of chocolates, the gift of a grateful set worker.

Another presence was felt: her longtime costar Spencer Tracy. Hepburn could talk him into almost anything, except attending a party.

"Guess Who's Coming for Dinner" has been announced as Tracy's swan song as a film actor—the end of a 37-year career that is unsurpassed in distinction.

"I want to tell you it was a touching moment when I directed Spencer Tracy in his last motion picture scene," said Stanley Kramer to a party guest.

The Kramer troupe sat down to dinner and the inevitable speeches followed.

He finished with a tribute to Tracy, "the greatest of all motion picture personalities."

Then Miss Hepburn leaned to her feet and strode to the microphone. She paid tribute to Kramer and then to her fellow workers:

"A movie actor has an audience—and it's you people. I don't think you realize how dependent we are on you for the warm looks and little things of encouragement that you give us. These are the things that make up our lives."

"You are the people who make an actor able to act. I don't know how many of you realize that. But I shall be everlastingly grateful to you. And I know that your help made a helluva lot of difference to Spence."

When she had finished and taken her seat, all of her listeners arose to applaud her. They seemed to sense that they had taken part in a chapter of film history—the last of the Hepburn-Tracy pictures.

Mountain Railroad

New Hampshire's Mt. Washington Railway is not only the oldest mountain-climbing railroad in the United States but it is also the oldest cog railroad in the world.

Classically the cradle and crossroads of civilization, the Middle East in modern times has also been a cockpit of crisis. Chronic unrest dates back to World War I and the beginning of the return of the Jews to their long-lost homeland in Palestine, then under British mandate from the old League of Nations. The Palestine war which followed British withdrawal after World War II established Israel as an independent state but spawned Arab-Jewish enmity which has kept the Mideast in a state of half-war and at times threatened the world's peace.

Students Say Fredonia Forces Prof. to Quit

FREDONIA, N.Y. (AP) — The administration of the State College at Fredonia has secretly forced a professor to resign partly because he has been identified with "radical" causes, a group of students contend.

The students, who said they would rather remain unidentified, said Tuesday that petitions have been circulated on campus in the hope of forestalling the resignation of Dr. Lewis C. Lewis, a 40-year-old English professor and father of three.

The group said the administration pressured Lewis into resigning because he was too "palsy-walsy" with students and was identified with "radical" causes such as anti-war demonstrations.

Lewis confirmed that he submitted his resignation, effective September 1, but declined further comment.

When Dr. Oscar E. Lanford, college president, was questioned, he stated: "It is not college policy to discuss the resignation of individual faculty members with anyone."

Lewis, whose contract was to have expired in June, 1968, came to the college three years ago after teaching at the University of British Columbia.

U.S. Fleet Ready to Counter

ABOARD THE CARRIER AMERICA IN THE MEDITERRANEAN (AP) The commander of the powerful U.S. 6th Fleet, which is standing by for any call to action in the Middle East crisis, says he has what he calls open-ended military options to achieve his mission of keeping open international sea lanes.

Vice Adm. William I. Martin did not amplify on his statement Tuesday.

In an interview, Rear Adm. Lawrence R. Geis, commander of the fleet's Task Force 60, said, "We will do whatever we are directed to do by the President and that includes a whole range of options." Like Martin, he did not elaborate on the options.

Geis did say the immediate plan was for the carrier striking force to stay near Crete in the Mediterranean and, as he phrased it, wait and see.

The 6th Fleet carriers America and Saratoga have squadrons of A4 and F4 fighter aircraft capable of reaching the Suez Canal and the northern end of the Gulf of Aqaba, focal point of the dispute between Egypt and Israel. Egypt has proclaimed a blockade of the gulf for Israeli ships and of vessels carrying what it considers strategic goods to Israel.

The carrier Intrepid, with 70 attack planes, originally was bound for Vietnam but has been held in the Mediterranean. It is the only carrier of the three small enough to pass through the Suez Canal and could beef up American naval strength in the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aqaba, Martin declined to speculate on whether the Intrepid, which is not under his command, might be ordered to sail through the canal.

Boy Scout News Hurley Troop 20 Gets Awards at Court of Honor

Twenty-nine Boy Scouts of Troop 20, Hurley, received 41 awards at the May Court of Honor.

Steven Hofler advanced to Life Scout and Douglas Whittaker advanced to Star Scout in ceremonies conducted by Robert Tremper, assistant district commissioner. He pointed out that this advancement requires participation in community and Scout activities and earning five merit badges for Star and 10 merit badges for Life.

Four boys advanced to First Class Scout and six advanced to Second Class Scout in ceremonies conducted by Thomas Harkin, Troop 20 committee chairman. The boys who advanced to First Class Scout are William Lang, James Gogg, David Brinnier, and William Welch. The Second Class Scout pins went to Mark Rioux, Dana Stengel, Gene Breton, Dwight Dinsmore, Daniel Kelley, and Fred Kurland.

Two new boys were inducted into the troop by Thomas Harkin and Robert Lawton, Scoutmaster of Troop 20. The new Tenderfoots are Dennis Gogg and Jerry Maneen.

Merit badges were presented to 20 boys in recognition of their efforts in various fields of study. Michael Hofler received four merit badges, Steven Hofler received three, and Tim McGuire and William Schaaf each received two merit badges.

In addition, one merit badge was received by William Lang, Douglas Whittaker, Fred Kurland, Steven Hughes, John Rioux, John Mizel, Glen Littlefield, Gary Littlefield, James Woodard, Mike Botsford, James Gogg, Steven Harkin, William Welch, John Walker, Charles Bouton, and Keith MacDonald.

Eighteen of the merit badges awarded at this Court of Honor were in First Aid as a result of an eight-week class conducted by Robert Kurland. These 18 boys also received their Junior First Aid American Red Cross Certificate as the class also covered these requirements. Scoutmaster Lawton and Assistant Scoutmasters Charles Bouton, Benard Mizel and Richard Rioux were lauded for their efforts in working with the Scouts on advancements.

After the Court of Honor, movies were shown of a typical day at Camp Tri Mount. The boys of Troop 20 saw themselves in several of the scenes. In addition, a film taken of the troop at a weekend camping trip at Camp Tri Mount was shown.

Three Advance To Eagle Rank

Three Boy Scouts of the Rip Van Winkle Council recently advanced to the coveted Eagle Scout rank. They are Leo Hanrahan, John Benjamin and John Karkheck.

The three attended a Rip Van Winkle Council Eagle Board of Review last week at the Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, 267 Wall Street, Kingston.

Leo Hanrahan is a member of Explorer Post No. 28 in Ellenville; John Benjamin is a member of Scout Troop No. 10 in the Town of Ulster, and John Karkheck belonged to Troop No. 101 in East Durham, Greene County.

Arrangements for the Court of Review were made by Harry Slobodian, advancement committee chairman for the Rip Van Winkle Council that takes in Greene and Ulster Counties.

Serving as members of the board of review were Ulster County Judge Raymond Mino; Philip Gillen, of the New York State Conservation Department; Kenneth Mance, an Ellenville postmaster; William G. Poythress, an associate engineer with IBM, and Norman Wilson, an IBM staff engineer.

Short Campaigns

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John Williams, R-Del., has suggested that presidential campaigns be shortened in order to reduce campaign costs.

He said he has urged the Democratic and Republican parties to consider holding their national conventions in September, rather than July or August. This would cut the campaign time from two months or more to about five weeks.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

The forests of Guyana, the newly independent country in South America, contain some of the fiercest animals in the world. The pingo, a savage pig, often travels in packs of up to 200 and is not above attacking hunters, says The World Almanac. A school of piranha fish could reduce a cow to a skeleton in minutes.

Make Homemaking Full Time Job

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Randy and I both have full time jobs and we are tired when we get home at night. There is dinner to prepare, cleaning up afterwards, and the million and one other things that require time and attention to run a home properly. Abby, I know this is supposed to be a woman's job, but I need help.

My day time job is every bit as demanding of me as Randy's is of him, so why should I have to come back to more work after a hard day's work, while Randy comes home to "relax"? I think since I'm also working, my husband should share in the housework. This leads to arguments. Please answer soon as the kitchen sink is still piled with dishes from two nights ago.

DEAR BUSHED: One question: Why are you working? If you must work to put food on the table, then Randy shouldn't mind helping with the housework. But, if you're working for extra luxuries, you'd be wiser to eat beans and work harder making your home one which your man will enjoy coming home to.

DEAR ABBY: I am a girl of 16. I have short hair and I like it that way. Today I went into a drug store, and the man said, "Hello, Sonny." (He actually mistook me for a boy.)

I used to like long hair on a boy (not down to his shoulders, of course, but "long") but now that I am wearing mine short I feel funny going out with a boy who has longer hair than I have.

Some of the boys wear their hair so long I have to look twice to see if they're boys or girls.

I don't understand how a boy would want to even take the chance of being mistaken for a girl. Can you explain this to me?

DEAR GIRL: No. It doesn't make any more sense than the girl who would wear her hair so short she would chance being mistaken for a boy. I don't care which argument you counter with (I have heard them all from Jesus to George Washington). I maintain that long hair is feminine and short hair is masculine, and the kind of impression one wants to create (consciously, or unconsciously) is his own business.

DEAR ABBY: When I send a gift and it isn't acknowledged within a month, I don't telephone a relative to find out if that person ever received my gift. I simply call that person directly and say, "Last month I sent you a gift and had it charged to my account, which is now due. Before paying my bill I would like to be sure the articles were delivered." It never fails. And by the way, I have yet to be told that my gift wasn't delivered.

DUMB LIKE A FOX

CONFIDENTIAL to "Bitter" in New London: If you work for a man, speak well of him or not at all. I am aware that not everyone can speak well of his employer, in which case he should keep his mouth shut and find another job.

BERRY'S WORLD

"It just occurred to me—by supporting the civil rights movement, we're helping people get all the things we've REJECTED!"

we care

how is your rib roast trimmed?

That depends upon where you buy it.

At A&P, we sell only short-cut, 7-inch, oven-ready Ribs of Beef.

We remove the excess Short Ribs and sell them separately at the lower Short Rib price.

We never tuck them under and charge the Rib Roast price.

We remove the back-strap for easier carving.

Is all this trimming important to you?

Well, on an average four-rib roast, we trim up to 1 1/4-lbs. of excess fat and bone.

At Rib Roast prices, that adds up!

Something else you should know.

We cut our Rib Roasts only from the first four ribs.

We never charge extra for the first two ribs.

Next time you buy a Rib Roast, think about these things.

And then think, shouldn't A&P be your store?

Project REAL Proves Good Fun, Interesting for Sixth Graders

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

Sixth graders are pondering over their problems of filing personal income tax forms, and scrutinizing their finances and expenditures.

They are carefully watching the stock market results.

They are working as bankers, wholesalers, public officials, conducting businesses and professional ventures and experiencing what they will be confronted with in adult living and adult community situations in future years.

These children — approximately 90 of them — never realized that learning could be so interesting and so much fun.

They are part of Project REAL (reading, economics, arithmetic, language) an integrated program of practical living which is currently being conducted at the Harry L. Edson Elementary School off Merrill Avenue.

The concept was originally devised in 1953 by Stephen Waligurski, now a sixth grade teacher at Edson.

The current project, which is progressing on convenient schedules and is one of the most unique presented in area schools, is under the direction of its originator and Peter Dyshuk, Vernon Outwater, also sixth grade teachers at the new school and Donald E. Sweeney, principal.

Physically, REAL is a community consisting of—a municipal building, court house, city jail, stock exchange, two banks, two wholesale houses, three stores, a book rental agency, two insurance companies.

Two real estate firms, a business journal, three certified public accountants, three law firms, two doctors, a judge, street cleaner, utility repairman, and the "citizens" all form to make up the community of REAL. The sixth graders, as citizens and business people, own and patronize the various business enterprises.

This reporter visited the project layout the other day. He noticed there was keen competition in the business operations.

Buyers Also Keen

The buyers also are keen. They browse through stores looking for bargains. Merchants also have several so-called "come-ons" to induce early buying. REAL has its own law enforcement unit, a city court, jail and other features.

The integrated program will continue at least until the end of the present school year and possibly be resumed next year as a practical educational project.

The Sixth Grade pupils have produced everything for the functioning of the community. Notably important is the "civic responsibility" which has developed in the participants. An obvious increase in respect for property and rights of others is noted. Reading and language have played an important role in community life of REAL. Sixth graders completed more than 100 books of their own, which are rented.

Economics and arithmetic are emphasized as children manipulate their incomes to achieve a sense of "financial responsibility."

Sixth grade pupils assigned as public servants and businessmen of the REAL community include: Lisa Pugliese, city treasurer; Debbie Hanscom, city manager; Nancy Dunn, city clerk; Douglas Bloch, judge; Timothy Bartley, district attorney; Donald Clausi, police sergeant; Lee Yelvington and Steve Hall, patrolmen; John Moran and Robert Elliott, jailors; Thomas Blass, Stephen Exstrand, street cleaner and utility repairman.

Stock Exchange brokers are Mark Skatrud, John Osborn, Jay Burnett.

Bank employees — Edson Savings and Loan — Marie Guido, Kathy Tatarzewski and Marie Sande; Edson First National Bank—Daryl Reilly, Marie DeFalco and Cindy Myer.

Wholesale House operators—Edson Wholesale—Gordon MacLeod and Janet More; Harry's Wholesale—Robert Shufeldt, Eugene Hannay, Richard McClurg and David Letersky.

Stores — Sav-Way Market — James Halwick, Virginia Hood, Beverly Hall; Edson Bargain Market — Amie Gellen, Tracey Clark, Michele Carpio; Green's Grocery Store — Linda Micks, Suzanne Brooker and Linda Halwick.

Book Rental Agency — Sharon Jones, Insurance Company operators—Fred Brueckner and Phillip Kenny; Real Estate Firms — Melinda Carpino and Barbara Hornbeck; Business Journal—Gordon MacLeod Enterprises is operated by Roger Scholl.

Certified public accountants and attorneys — June Wolfenstein, Timothy Bartley, Allen McDowell and Kevin Coluch; Kathy Castle is the community doctor and Eileen Daley and Lucinda Conner conduct the employment agency.

The purpose of project REAL is to give the children of the school a personal insight of adult living in an adult community situation. They are actually experiencing success and failure typical in business and community life, and each child is given $28 (play money) at the beginning of the project and has an equal opportunity to enter business, save, spend or invest.

Although the program generally has been geared for the sixth graders, members of special curriculum classes housed in Edson School have participated in buying and selling aspects of community life. Special classes taught by Mrs. Ruth Brown and Mrs. Marjorie Martin have participated. H. Van Wyck Darrow, executive vice-president of Savings and Loan Association of Kingston, recently explained various aspects of banking to the sixth graders. He invited the children to visit the Savings and Loan on Tuesday, June 13.

Eugene C. Kupka of Carl M. Loeb, Rhoades and Co. members of the New York Stock Exchange, will speak to the children soon concerning functions of stock exchange. Parents have been invited to visit the project Tuesday, June 6.

The teachers coordinating the project said Project REAL is a practical approach to learning. They say it integrates the several areas of education into realistic concepts. The child's participation in the activities of this simulated community places him face to face with the business world and its social influences. He is primarily motivated by his own desires for success and is guided toward self-improvement by his own, or his colleagues successes or failures.

Bridge Results

The Glenierie Bridge Club held its regular Fractional point game at the Elks Club and played 27 boards in a Howell movement.

The first place went to Miss Dorothy Maroon and Dr. Hebeeb Maroon of Kingston with a 59 per cent game. Second place went to Ernest LeFevre and Ray Elmdorf of Hurley with a 58 per cent game. Third place went to Mr. and Mrs. Pechloff of Kingston with a 56 per cent game. Fourth place went to Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Baggot with a 55 per cent game.

The Glenierie Bridge Club held its monthly Master Point Game at the Elks Club Tuesday.

Kingman Brewster Speaks to Graduates At Colgate Univ.

College graduates in New York State should fill their roles in society with tolerance, patience and hard work, speakers at graduations Sunday said.

In Buffalo, Dr. Kingman Brewster Jr., president of Yale University, urged Buffalo's 2,200 graduates to practice patience and tolerance rather than suppression or disruption as a means of solving conflicts.

In Hamilton, Frederick R. Kappel, retired board chairman of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co., told 361 Colgate University graduates that only "dedicated hard work based on the most scrupulous attention to facts" would help them meet the challenges of today.

He said that many of today's generation "tend to give the impression of people looking for shortcuts and I could summarize the main idea I am trying to express in these four or five words—there are no shortcuts."

The commencement was Colgate's 146th.

At Buffalo's 121st commencement, Brewster said "the privilege of your education puts upon you the obligation to protect reason against the strident arrogance of both tyrant and anarchist."

Brewster was critical of those "tempted to rationalize a call to hate and violence if it is uttered in the name of the victims of poverty or discrimination."

At the other extreme, he said, were those "tempted to rationalize and excuse the witch hunt and suppression of civil rights. They march toward oppression under the banner of maintaining order."

In another commencement, Dr. William P. Tolley, chancellor of Syracuse University, spoke to the 179 graduates of Rosary Hill College, a Roman Catholic school in Eggertsville, near Buffalo.

Meanwhile, the Most Rev. Fulton J. Sheen, bishop of the Roman Catholic Diocese of Rochester, was the commencement speaker at 202 women were graduated from Nazareth College at its 40th graduation.

Bronck furnishings through the generosity of the late Leonard Bronck Lampman. Among the personal property are several portraits; many of these, because of advanced age, are in need of restoration. The portrait of Samuel Van Vechten, painted in 1710, an early Patroon painting, has been restored at considerable cost, and this winter was on loan to Colonial Williamsburg.

A current project of the society is the restoration of the portrait of Judge Leonard Bronck, painted in the Federalist period by Ezra Ames, the well-known Albany artist. To finance this project, the society is sponsoring the Old Homes Tour with 8 Cocksackie area homes open to the public. These homes present a diversified and interesting assortment.

There are two stone houses built in the early half of the 18th Century—one, a two-room cottage and loft with walls two feet thick; the other, a stately Georgian home handsomely restored and furnished; a Dutch brick, of the late 1700's, with a fine collection of Rosthoven paintings; the home built about 1800 by Dr. John Ely, great-grandfather of Leonard Bronck Lampman, donor of Bronck House; a "country seat" owned and occupied by the same family for over 100 years; two Greek Revivals—one basically an old house, rebuilt in that manner, furnished with antiques, with beautiful boxwood gardens; the other, built in 1822, has flat ionic woodwork, a 13-panneled front door, and Victorian furnishings; a "lighthouse," high on the bank of the Hudson, with early American furnishings, once the home of the caretaker of the adjoining beacon light.

On display will be interesting collections of lacy salts, other early American Pattern Glass, calendar plates, and Tiffany.

The lacy salts collection has been put together by Mr. and Mrs. James Warren. It consists of 400 salts, of which 100 are in color. It is well known in the "antique world," having been the basis for the text, "Pressed Glass Salt Dishes of the Lacy Period, 1820-1850," by Neal.

The Early American Pressed Glass collection has about 1,000 pieces, representative of nearly that many different patterns, with emphasis on compotes and saucers. In the same home there is a collection of over 100 calendar plates, dating from 1903 through 1929, the period in America when they were given away by merchants, usually at Christmas time, just as paper calendars are given today.

In the Tiffany collection, owned by Mrs. Walter Baumann is the famed Wisteria lamp, the rarest of all Tiffany lamps, as well as other beautiful pieces produced at the Tiffany studios.

New Honor Society Members at KHS
Fourteen Kingston High School students were inducted into the Henrietta Manning Chapter of the National Honor Society Thursday, May 25. The annual spring inductions were held at a special assembly in the Kingston High School auditorium.

Seniors inducted were Robert Costello, Jean Dixon, Richard Eng, Charlene Goss and Candy Scott.

Junior chosen were Roy Brower, John Carey, Dorothy Metcalf, Ralph Mitchell, Joann Pagliaro, David Roberts, Arnold Shienovold, Roger Thiel and Caroline Valle.

The induction program was opened by Thomas Salzman, Honor Society president. The criteria for membership was explained by four Honor Society members: Frank Johnson, the importance of scholarship; Carol Breslin, the importance of character; Leonard Viejo, leadership in school activities; and Melinda Rosenthal, service to the school.

The new inductees were recommended by the faculty.

Donna May Bertholf Weds Dennis Sharp; Couple Will Reside in Saugerties

Miss Donna May Bertholf, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard D. Bertholf of 225 Harwich Street, Kingston, exchanged marriage vows with Dennis Raymond Sharp, son of Mrs. Helen Sharp of Albany Avenue, Kingston, on Sunday, May 28, 1967 at 2 p. m. in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church, Kingston. The Rev. Reginald T. Edwards officiated while traditional music was provided by Mrs. Raymond Rignall, organist, and Anthony Hummel, soloist.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a white silk faced gown with a rounded neckline, tapered sleeves and a fitted empire bodice with bell shaped skirt. Her veil of wide English silk illusion was shirred to a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cascade of white carnation and daisies.

Mrs. Robert Hall of Shady was matron of honor in a floor length brocade avocado gown styled with "coop" neckline and wattle train. She carried yellow carnations and daisies.

Frank Wroblewski of Kingston was best man for his nephew, Usher, son of Arthur Nelson of Kingston and Barry Bertholf, brother of the bride, who was a junior usher.

A reception for more than 100 guests was given at The Capri in Port Ewen. The bride was graduated from Kingston High School and is employed by Spiegel Catalog in Kingston. Her husband is an alumnus of Kingston High School and Ulster County Community College. He is employed at Rowe's Shoe Store in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Sharp will reside at 3 Jeffrey Court in Saugerties, N. Y.

DR. ROBERT F. WOLFERSTEIG

Woman's College of Georgia Will Sing In Kingston; Wolfersteig Directing

The Woman's College of Georgia's Cappella Choir, under the direction of Robert F. Wolfersteig, will give a concert on June 6 at 8 p. m. in the Clinton Avenue Methodist Church. No admission will be charged but a free will offering will be accepted.

The choir director, Dr. Wolfersteig, is the son of Mrs. Clarence Wolfersteig of Connelly, and the late Mr. Wolfersteig. He is chairman of the Department of Music at the Woman's College of Georgia in Milledgeville, Ga.

Wolfersteig received his education at the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Westminster Choir College and Indiana University, having studied organ with Parvin Titus, Alexander McCurdy and Oswald Ragatz. In 1961 he was the winner of a national organ playing contest in Fort Wayne, Ind., and also received a Fulbright Grant to study in Berlin, Germany. There he worked with Karl Schuke in organ design; Sylvia Kind, harpsichord; Michael Schneider, organ; and Ernst Pepping, counterpoint.

Dr. Wolfersteig has taught at Jamestown College, Indiana

University, and Montreat Music Conference. He has appeared as guest organist with the Winston-Salem Symphony, Indiana University Symphony Band, Westminster Symphony and members of the Indianapolis Symphony. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, American Guild of Organists and Pi Kappa Lambda.

The Woman's College of Georgia is composed of students from all departments in the college who participate in the activities of the singing group for the educational experience derived.

Each year the choir presents concerts in numerous churches and civic groups throughout the state, culminating each season with an annual extended tour to such points as New York, Miami, or New Orleans. This year, in addition to the trip to New Orleans in March, the Woman's College Choir has been awarded the honor of representing the State of Georgia at the Canadian World Exhibition (Expo '67) in Montreal in June.

These tours enable the choir members to participate in many educational experiences, as well as better equipping them as ambassadors of song, and enabling them to gain self-discipline. Perhaps the greatest advantage of all is that of forming lasting friendships and becoming acquainted with great music.

Since many of the members of the choir have had very little musical training prior to entering college, long hours of intensive training and rehearsal are required to achieve the effects of basic musical expression. The choir performs music from all periods of music literature, creating moods equal to the music of the great composers. The choir's artistry and concept of musical style has gained for them recognition and respect among many leaders in the field of music education.

Timely Tips Are Offered for Expo Bound Travelers

In the next few months, millions of vacationers heading north to Montreal and Expo '67 will be concerned with only one thing: having a fun-filled trip.

But there are many hazards to be aware of when visiting fairs, expositions, and the like, according to Pinkerton's, Inc. Pinkerton's has provided security for many fairs, e.g. the New York World's Fair in 1964-65, and because of its experience, offers several recommendations and suggestions for visitors to Expo '67.

Regarding lost children, the 117-year old organization says the rule one is: "Don't panic." Stations are set up on the fairgrounds where parents can be reunited with lost children. Children old enough should be instructed to go immediately to these areas if they find themselves alone in the crowd.

In case of a major or even minor accident at the fair, help can be obtained from first aid stations where medical personnel are on duty.

Do not hesitate to get the necessary help from them. A child with an upset stomach from too many treats can be easily taken care of and "cured" with very little trouble.

Pinkerton's also pointed out that many vacationers will be spoiled because of various schemes perpetrated by professional thieves. These thieves take advantage of unwary vacationers and try almost anything to make a "quick buck."

Pinkerton's warns of the five most common practices used by thieves to bilk vacationers:

1) Incomplete "package tours" offered by local agencies. The tour may be advertised as "complete—everything included," but you may discover it's far from that. Deal with a respected travel agency and find out in advance just what your tour covers and doesn't cover.

2) Undelivered merchandise from concessionaires. This would include many varieties of items: souvenirs, jewelry, perfume, and color slides. The rule here is not to pay cash for any order to be shipped. Pay by check or have the order shipped C.O.D. and get a receipt for your purchase with the name and address of the seller.

3) Fraudulent merchandise. Inevitably, phony items will be peddled on the fringe of the fair. A typical gimmick would be a "$30" watch for "only $12.50" (actual worth $3). Common sense is the guide here; street corner peddlers are among the least reliable sources of quality products.

4) Overpriced hotel accommodations and overbooking. For your own protection, strictly observe hotel check-in rules.

5) Pickpockets. These crooks thrive wherever crowds gather. Common sense warns you not to carry large amounts of cash or other valuables to the fair. Use travel checks whenever possible.

If vacationers take the necessary precautions and keep a sharp eye out for crooks, they will, in all probability, encounter no difficulties.

LEARN TIPPING TIPS FROM TODAY'S QUIZ

Many of you will be taking tips this summer. One of the most confusing things you will encounter is the question of how much to tip. Knowing the right amounts will save you many embarrassing moments.

The following questions are based on the custom in medium-priced establishments.

1. Your waiter in a restaurant receives (a) 10 per cent (b) 15 per cent (c) 20 per cent. 2. The headwaiter who leads you to your table but does not more, receives (a) no tip (b) one dollar (c) 10 per cent of bill.

3. Waitresses receive (a) a larger tip than (b) a smaller tip than (c) the same amount as waiters.

4. A checkroom attendant expects (a) 10c (b) 25c (c) 50c.

5. When you order a meal at a lunch counter, the tip is (a) none (b) 10 per cent (c) 15 per cent.

6. If you order a cup of coffee at a counter, (a) no tip is necessary (b) you tip 10c (c) you leave a quarter for a tip.

7. The dining room waiter in a hotel receives (a) 10 per cent (b) 15 per cent (c) 20 per cent.

8. When a waiter brings breakfast to your hotel room, you (a) tip 15 per cent of the bill (b) need not tip him (c) tip extra for the room service.

9. Chambermaids in a hotel where you stay for one night are left (a) nothing (b) 10 per cent of hotel bill (c) 50c per person.

10. When the doorman at a hotel opens the car door for you, he receives (a) nothing (b) 10c (c) 25c.

11. The bellboy who delivers anything, such as ice or a telegram, to your room, expects (a) 25c (b) 50c (c) one dollar.

12. In motels where you stay for one night, you leave the chambermaid (a) $1.00 regardless of number of people in room (b) 50c per person (c) nothing.

13. Unless otherwise posted, porters in terminals of all sorts receive (a) one dollar (b) 25c a bag (c) 50c a bag.

14. Airline stewardesses receive (a) a tip for any special service (b) no tip ever (c) one dollar a person.

15. Pullman porters, after an overnight train trip, receive (a) 50c to a dollar per person (b) one to two dollars per person (c) three dollars.

Answers:

1. b. 2. a. 3. c. 4. b. 5. c. 6. a.

7. b. 8. a. 9. c. 10. a. 11. a. 12. c.

13. b. 14. b. 15. a.

If you did not get at least twelve correct answers, you would be wise to send for Elizabeth L. Post's booklet "The Etiquette of Tipping." To get a copy, send twenty-five cents in coin to cover booklet and shipping expense, to Elizabeth L. Post, in care of this paper.

Bro. Flood Heads Teacher Education At Marist College

Brother Bernard Gregory Flood, F.M.S., has been appointed Director of Teacher Education at Marist College, Poughkeepsie, New York according to Brother Linus R. Foy, President of Marist College.

Brother Flood received his B.A. in Education from Fordham University and his A.M. from Teacher's College, Columbia University. He completed his Theological Studies at St. Quentin-Fallavier, France. He also attended Catholic University, Notre Dame, Brown University, City College of New York, and Wesleyan College in Connecticut, and in recent years, has been the recipient of several National Science Foundation grants in chemistry.

Brother Flood began his teaching career as a grade school teacher in 1936. After a few years, he entered high school teaching as a mathematics and science instructor, particularly in the field of chemistry. In 1950, he became the principal of Central Catholic High School, Wheeling, West Virginia and after a six year term, became principal of St. Mary's High School, Mannasset, New York. In 1958, he was appointed superintendent (supervisor) of Marist high schools throughout the continental United States.

Brother Flood was appointed educational consultant to the Anglo-American colony residing in Geneva, Switzerland in 1961 and was designated director of their contemplated international school. After a year's study, the proposed school did not seem feasible.

Upon his return to the United States, he resumed his position as educational delegate for the Marist Brothers, Esopus Province, and was assigned as chemistry instructor at St. Helena High School, Bronx, New York.

Brother Flood is a member of the National Science Teachers Association, the Marist Educational Committee, of which he also served as chairman for several years, the Executive Board of Secondary School Department of the National Catholic Education Association, and the Departments of Superintendents, N.C.E.A.

The previous director of Teacher Education was Brother William Murphy.

Futuristic Dresses Shown in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Fashion model Maggie O'Bryan, covered from head to toe by bright spots of body paint, caught the eye of most of the 3,000 persons who showed up at the Philadelphia Museum of Art.

She was one of several models appearing Thursday night at a fashion show featuring what a designer called "futuristic dresses."

Maggie wore only a body stocking—a sheer type bathing suit—with multicolor paint worked into all types of patterns. The other models were outfitted in vinyl, paper and metallic materials. One wore a wedding gown with an electric headpiece that blinked on and off as she swung to the blaring beats of a jazz combo.

tomatoes, olives or gherkin fans.

Remember, as the saying goes, "The better the bread, the better the sandwich." For the best party loaves, choose a firm textured premium bread.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

15 slices white bread, crusts trimmed softened butter

deviled ham filling egg salad filling chicken salad filling lobster salad filling

2 packages (8 oz. each) cream cheese

1 cup dairy sour cream

radishes, cherry tomatoes, olives, sweet gherkins for garnish

Place three slices of bread side by side on a serving platter. Spread them with butter. Cover with Deviled Ham Filling. Butter three more bread slices and place buttered side down on ham. Press gently to keep loaf firm.

Spread second layer with butter then Egg Salad Filling. Repeat with third layer of buttered bread. Spread with butter and Chicken Salad Filling. Top with fourth layer of buttered bread. Spread with butter and Lobster Salad Filling. Cover with fifth layer of buttered bread, again pressing down gently. Do not butter top of last layer of bread.

Whip softened cream cheese and sour cream. Frost all sides using a flat-bladed spatula. Decorate with radishes, pickles or olives to suit your whim.

Refrigerate two or three hours until cream cheese hardens, slice carefully, and serve on individual plates to eat with a fork. Makes 10 to 12 servings.

PARTY SANDWICH LOAF

NFMC Names 1967 Winners in Music Week Essay Contest

Fourteen winners have been named in the 1967 National Music Week Essay Contest by the National Federation of Music Clubs. Mrs. Clifton J. Muir, Coral Gables, Florida, president. Administered by the NFMC, this nation-wide contest is supported by a grant from Broadcast Music Inc.

National Music Week which is observed during the first full week in May is under the sponsorship of the National Federation of Music Clubs, and the selection of Essay Contest winners was an adjunct to this week in 1967. The contest was open to students in grades 9-12 who were invited to submit essays of 500 words or less on the subject of "Why Is Music For Everyone?"

Judges of the contest were appointed by Mrs. Henry L. Porter, Chicago, Ill., National Music Week chairman. They were: Duane A. Branigan, director, School of Music, University of Illinois, Urbana, Ill.; Leo Heim, dean, American Conservatory of Music, Chicago, Ill.; and Dr. Robert Mueller, School of Music, Southern Illinois University, Carbondale, Ill.

The winners, each of whom represents one of NFMC's 14 districts, receive a $25 cash award and a record album. The school of each winner receives an NFMC Award of Merit.

Rondout Music Department Earns Outstanding Ratings of 6-A Plus

MUSIC WINNERS who competed in the New York State spring festival competitions included, front (l-r) Ellen Russak, Howard Holz; rear (l-r) Dirk Snyder, Steve Schoonmaker and Stanley Wagar. The Rondout Valley Concert Band received a 6-A plus rating.

Competing in the New York State School Music Association's Spring Festival Competitions over the past three weeks, Rondout Valley High School's Music Department scored impressively with the Concert Band receiving a 6A Plus rating, reported to be the first time this rating has been achieved in Ulster County. Solos and ensembles also competed and achieved an outstanding record of 39 A ratings, including 14 6 A ratings, which are the highest solo and ensemble ratings possible in the state. Many B ratings were also obtained in all grades of music.

The Concert Band attained its rating on Friday, May 19. Three years ago the State Music Association set up the 6A Plus rating, above the previous high rating of 6 A. To obtain this rating, a band must prepare five major numbers. Instead of the usual three, the judges pick two of these to be played by the band, in addition to the required march. For a 6A rating, the judges pick one of three major numbers, the band director picks a second of the three and the band must play a march. On the same weekend, the Junior Concert Band achieved a 3A rating. Rondout choral groups excelled in their competition one week earlier. The Concert choir received a 4A rating and the more select Chamber Singers a 3A rating.

Some of the ratings achieved by solos and ensembles are as follows: Choral Department: Steve Schoonmaker 6A; Dale Mayberry 6A; Linda Sarr 5A; Jean Embree 5B; Suzanne Friedman 5B; Carol Mikalonis 4A; Theresa Godfrey 4A; Nancy Boss 3A; Sally Shumate 3B; Rene Jenkins 2B; Catherine Previll 2B; Boys Ensemble 2A; Girls Ensemble 2A; Boys Quartet 5A. Instrumental Department: Keith Gorham 6A; Baritone Horn Mary Lyons, flute; Ellen Russak, clarinet, 6A; Lana Slater, flute, 6A; Barbara Bushnell, French horn, 6A; Howard Altholz, also saxophone, 6A; David Feinberg, oboe, 6A; Stanley Wagar, snare drum, 6A; Dirk Snyder, snare drum, 6A; Steve Schoonmaker, baritone horn, 6A; flute quartet 6A. 6B ratings awarded to: Evelyn Clementz, clarinet, Lesley Coulton, clarinet, Peggy Stokes, bass clarinet, clarinet quartet; 5A: Daniel Schlifman, trumpet; Lynn Doyle, bassoon, Dale Mayberry, trombone, senior brass choir, flute trio.

5B Steven Sommer, trumpet, Celia DeMeo, bass clarinet, Andy Oleksi, also saxophone, Sally Shumate, bass clarinet, Carol Robertaccio, flute, Ann Van Kleeck, clarinet, Nancy Boss, tenor saxophone, Debbie Denkensohn, flute, Robert Taylor, trumpet, John Ryder, trumpet, saxophone quartet; 4A: Marc Crisman, trombone, Gary Shaver, trombone, Lucy Schoonmaker, French horn, Jane Mayberry, tuba, Linda Sarr, tympani; 4B: Roger Nielson, trombone, Phillip Sutton, French horn; 3A Linda Miller, alto saxophone, James Miegel, trumpet, Chris Schoonmaker, cornet, Cathy Highland, cornet; 3A: Linda Young, oboe, Robert Gaddos, tuba, Jill Ryder, French horn.

Israeli and American Art to Be Exhibited By Sisterhood Ahavath Israel in Kingston

An important exhibition and sale of Israeli and American Art will be held at Ahavath Israel Synagogue, 100 Lucas Avenue. Several hundred paintings, lithographs, drawings and sculpture will be on view to the general public. Art lovers are expected from the entire community and surrounding areas.

The Sisterhood will open the exhibit with a sponsor's and patron's preview and reception, from 7:30 to 11 p. m. on Sunday, June 18. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Henry Jacobs of Kingston.

Arrangements for the exhibition are being handled by Emerging Arts, Inc., of New York. Mrs. Edith Talbert and Mrs. Eleanor Richman of the Gallery have traveled in Israel, selecting significant work of many Israeli artists. They will also present paintings and sculpture by a number of Jewish artists in this country.

Among the works shown will be a limited number of etchings by the "Father of Israeli Art," the late Herman Struck. Though Struck etched life-size portraits and painted delicate watercolors, he is best known and most often emulated for small, graphic art. His experimentation with the effects of metal and acid has resulted in unusual color values. Among the most celebrated of his portraits are those of Theodor Herzl, Albert Einstein, and Abraham Lincoln.

He wrote two texts, "The Art of Etching" and "Etching in the Fine Book." Other distinguished artists whose work will be shown are Binder, Weston, Jona Mach, and others.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Woinoski of 114 Spring Street will celebrate their 36th wedding anniversary on Thursday, June 1. A dinner party was given in their honor on Sunday in skyline Restaurant, Catskill.

Arrangements for the exhibition are being handled by Emerging Arts, Inc., of New York. Mrs. Edith Talbert and Mrs. Eleanor Richman of the Gallery have traveled in Israel, selecting significant work of many Israeli artists. They will also present paintings and sculpture by a number of Jewish artists in this country.

Among the works shown will be a limited number of etchings by the "Father of Israeli Art," the late Herman Struck. Though Struck etched life-size portraits and painted delicate watercolors, he is best known and most often emulated for small, graphic art. His experimentation with the effects of metal and acid has resulted in unusual color values. Among the most celebrated of his portraits are those of Theodor Herzl, Albert Einstein, and Abraham Lincoln.

He wrote two texts, "The Art of Etching" and "Etching in the Fine Book." Other distinguished artists whose work will be shown are Binder, Weston, Jona Mach, and others.

Jordan Heads Local Jaycees

Patrick Jordan was elected president of the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce last week at a meeting held in the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Others elected are Victor Locke, internal vice president; Richard Rydstrom, external vice president; Leo Buboltz, secretary; Henry Jordan Jr., treasurer; James Barba, state director.

William Fredericks and Grace Montgomery were named directors for one year terms.

Jordan, the newly elected president, is a life long resident of the Kingston area. He has been very active in Jaycees, having served as a member of the board of directors for the last four years. In his new capacity, Jordan will represent the Kingston Junior Chamber of Commerce as its chief executive officer at all the New York State meetings and conventions. He will attend the New York State training session for newly elected presidents at Canastota in June.

Newly elected officers will be installed at the annual banquet to be held June 17 at the Capri "400" in Port Ewen at 7:30

Port Ewen School Meeting Slated June 6

Election of officers for the coming year will take place. A panel discussion of Communism in the School will be led by Judge Hubert Richter as guest and James Tyrrell as moderator. School shirts will be on sale after the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

Didn't Like Flag
COPENHAGEN (AP) — The Israeli flag fluttered from the Egyptian Embassy for a short while Sunday until officials discovered it and caught a fleeing Israeli.

The young Jew pleaded innocence but was charged with putting the flag around the Egyptian coat-of-arms on the wall of the embassy.

Embassy officials saw him photographing the building and nabbed him as he tried to board a bus.

West's Passes Locate Ace

The student ducked two rounds of spades and won the third lead. Then he proceeded to play out dummy's six hearts with elaborate ceremony. At least, he went through deep celebration at each play after the second.

East had discarded a heart on the third spade and his discards in order on the next four hearts were deuce-seven of clubs and six-nine of diamonds. South's discards were three-four of clubs and deuce-eight of diamonds, while West jettisoned the nine of clubs, three of diamonds, jack of clubs and jack of diamonds.

The student had watched every card intently and the professor could almost see the wheels turning as he really huddled before making his next play. Finally he led a diamond and cashed the ace and king for his contract.

East took the last two tricks with the ace and queen of clubs. The student apologized to his partner for not having gone after the overtrick. Then he turned to the professor, who was kibitzing, and asked, "is there any way that I could have figured out from the play that East would hold the ace of clubs? I couldn't be sure and did not want to jeopardize my contract. After all, if West held the ace of clubs we couldn't make four hearts."

The professor replied, "There was no way you could tell from the play but you did all your thinking along the wrong lines. I knew where the ace of clubs was at trick three."

"How could you?" asked the student.

The professor replied, "The moment East showed out on the third spade lead I knew that West held a five-card spade suit headed by king-queen-jack-ten. If West had also held the ace of clubs he would have overcalled your diamond opening with one spade. He had not overcalled. He could not hold that ace.

Congressman Supports LBJ

Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick today announced that he has joined 39 other members of Congress in signing the following statement on the Middle East crisis:

"As members of the United States Congress concerned with the development of strong international institutions within the United Nations to keep peace, we strongly endorse President Johnson's May 23 statement regarding the Arab-Israeli crisis.

"In the language of the President, 'We earnestly support all efforts, in and outside the United Nations and through its appropriate organs, including the Secretary General, to reduce tensions and restore stability.'"

"Specifically, we agree with President Johnson that:

1—We must, in the first instance, place reliance upon the United Nations to resolve the crisis;

2—The maintenance of peace in the Middle East is a matter of the gravest concern for all nations;

3—As the President said, 'a blockade of Israeli shipping is illegal and potentially disastrous to the cause of peace.' Therefore, the right of free, innocent passage should be granted to shipping of all nations through the Straits of Tiran; and 4—All of the nations of the Mideast have a special responsibility to moderate their words and actions so as to help to create a climate in which a peaceful resolution of the crisis can be obtained.

"We call upon all concerned to exercise their solemn responsibility to the international community in the spirit of the Charter of the United Nations for the development of world order.

Hospitals to Get Funds From Clinic

An organization formed here some 20 years ago and which has been acclaimed as serving the area well in the interval, is disappearing from the scene. William F. Edelmuth, a former mayor of Kingston and president of the Ulster County Tumor Clinic Foundation, Inc., organized more than two decades ago by several leading doctors in the area, told The Freeman today that the Foundation, having outlived its usefulness, is being disbanded.

Edelmuth, one of several persons in professions other than the medical, originally invited by those doctors who sought the formation of the Foundation, served as president of the organization from the very beginning. Among those in the original group still serving today, in addition to Edelmuth, are Herman Rafalowsky and Captain Andrew Hickey.

Over the years since its founding and incorporation under New York State law, the Tumor Clinic Foundation has been accumulating funds to help persons in the middle income bracket in the fight against cancer. It was felt at the time the Foundation began that the wealthier groups needed no help and those in the low income category received assistance from the State, but that middle class families needed financial aid.

Edelmuth says the Foundation has been able to aid many families in the past, but the changing picture today has brought the Tumor Clinic group to a crossroads. With those of high income still in no need of help, those with

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined modestly in active trading early Wednesday.

It was a continuation of the downward drift that set in Monday.

Declines of individual issues outnumbered advances by more than 2 to 1.

Nevertheless, brokers said they saw some hope for the near-term outlook for stock prices despite the continuing pessimism over the Middle East situation.

They mentioned slight improvement in the economic news background and favorable technical action within the market.

Control Data lost more than 3 points. Royal Dutch and McDonnell-Douglas were off a point.

Opening blocks included Brunswick, off 1/4 at 12 1/4 on 5,200 shares; Chrysler, off 1/2 at 40 1/4 on 4,700 shares; Pitkin, off 1 1/2 on 4,600 shares; and RCA, off 1/4 at 49 1/4 on 4,600 shares.

On Monday, The Associated Press 60-stock average declined 1.6 to 322.1.

Business Mirror Reflections

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Does the stock market have a consistent pattern of pieces of data to show millions of patterns — will answer positively. But not everyone believes in cycles.

Nevertheless, some evidence seems to have accumulated that there is a good chance the market will rise in January.

Control Data lost more than 3 points. Royal Dutch and McDonnell-Douglas were off a point.

Mayor Going To Municipal Talks Upstate

New means of tax revenue plus a long list of municipal problems will be discussed at the 58th annual meeting of the New York State Conference of Mayors and other municipal officials to be held at Syracuse June 11 through 15 and which will be attended by Kingston's Mayor Raymond W. Garrahan.

High on the list of topics will be the Constitutional Convention, air and water pollution, waste disposal, law enforcement, the state's Pure Waters Authority, and crime control.

Some 20 concurrent workshop-type seminars on specialized areas of municipal administration will be held at afternoon sessions. State and federal agencies will supply consultants.

Over 700 mayors and other officials from some 400 state communities are due to attend. The program will include tours of a new public safety building and of Syracuse's urban renewal project.

Thereafter, as uncertainty develops during the next two months the buyers remain safe on the sidelines. With demand weak, prices fall.

If this reasoning is sound it involves the thought that in buying on past news, rather than on some evidence of future gains, a lot of market theories seem to be contradicted. But this seeming contradiction is not quite that; the past is merely used as assurance of the future.

Uncertainty is the key word in understanding this interpretation of mass psychology. Buyers are uncertain of the future but, in having some proof of past performance, they are willing to gamble it will continue for another quarter at least.

Price Should Keep Pace With Growth

Q "We are a couple with four young children. We have just started to buy stocks and have acquired Clark Oil & Refining, Greyhound and Purex. Do you approve of these stocks? How do you regard Thrifty Drug as a new purchase, or can you offer other suggestions?"

A I am only too happy to offer suggestions to a fine family such as yours. I particularly like Clark Oil, which refines and markets gasoline and is the largest independent distributor in the Midwest.

Purex is making a comeback from its rather poor results in fiscal 1966, but the company is in a very competitive business and future growth may be rather slow. The shares are discounting improvement this year and if they get up above 30, I would switch them into American Home Products, which appears to have a stronger outlook.

Marquardt Sees Need For County Airport

One of the Republican candidates for County Legislator for the Towns of Hurley, Kingston, Marlborough, and Ulster, Jack Marquardt, said today that every indication points to the growing need to establish a major airport facility in Ulster County.

Marquardt said the County Airport Commission, which was created by the Board of Supervisors, has been doing an excellent job in laying the necessary groundwork for such a project, but that the final question of whether or not the county will actually have the airport rests completely in the hands of the County's legislative body.

The legislative assistant to Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson said the New York State Commerce Department has been working closely with the Airport Commission on the matter and has provided much data which confirms the need for a county airport. A few years ago, Marquardt went on to say, the Commerce Department released a survey covering Dutchess, Orange, and Ulster Counties which indicated that within a very short period of time Ulster County would definitely need expanded airport facilities. The Republican candidate also pointed to the fact that the Federal Aeronautical Agency has listed Ulster County as a potential airport site in its projection of future needs for New York State, but added that the Federal agency has stated that the facility should be located within a seven mile radius of the City of Kingston.

According to Marquardt, an airport of the size needed in the county would cost in excess of a half a million dollars, but added that half of the cost of construction could be supplied through Federal funds. He also said that if the State's $2.5 billion dollar transportation bond issue is approved this November there will be an additional 25 per cent of the cost of construction available through these State funds.

Marquardt, who is the former Deputy Clerk of the Board of Supervisors, went on to say that a proposal was made at the last meeting of the Board by Harry Kaprelian of the Airport Commission that the county approve an engineering survey for an airport, and Marquardt urged that the Board of Supervisors give serious consideration to the proposed study. He also said that the industrial survey currently being conducted by the Commission should reveal the vast industrial potential which could be gained through a county airport.

More Catholics To Take Wine, Eucharist Bread

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Starting Aug. 15, a greater number of Roman Catholics will be allowed to take communion wine as well as bread in celebration of the Eucharist, the peak of Catholic worship.

This is part of a series of new regulations on the Eucharist drawn up by the Vatican Congregation of Rites to implement changes in liturgy suggested by the Vatican Ecumenical Council and approved by Pope Paul VI.

In past practice only the priest, who consecrates the host, partakes of wine as well as the bread. Catholic belief considers the Eucharist as the blood and flesh of Christ.

The new regulations will enable various groups of lay people to partake of the wine as well.

For those who because of illness are unable to receive bread it will be possible for the local bishop to permit taking of wine alone.

Also able to take both bread and wine will be a bride and bridegroom in their wedding Mass, and newly baptized adults along with the godfather, godmother, parents and spouse of the newly baptized and the lay instructors who have prepared the adult for baptism.

Rationing Blueprint Ready

Prepare Wartime Measures

By TOM STEWART

WASHINGTON (AP) — If wartime rationing should ever become necessary again, the government has a standby blueprint ready along with other nonmilitary mobilization plans. But don't get edgy.

Federal planners gauging the impact of the Vietnam war on the U.S. economy stress they see no need on the horizon for rationing, a fading memory of World War II.

"I don't know of any substantial, serious proposal that we have on rationing or wage and price controls," says a top official of the Office of Emergency Planning — OEP.

Any presidential bid for rationing would need congressional approval before the blueprint became effective.

No Apparent Worry

However, no one in Congress seems to be worrying about rationing although there have been some mentions of the possibility of going back to wage-price controls.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., says he sees no likelihood of wage-price action by Congress this session "although pressure for it will be building up." And Sen. George D. Aiken, R-Vt., says any substantial broadening of the war will require more controls because of "soft spots in the economy."

A spokesman for the National Association of Manufacturers said that organization has given no thought to the return of controls. More emphatic was a spokesman for the President's Council of Economic Advisers who said the need for them is "as close to zero as you can get."

Still, OEP is ready to go if the still changes.

Standby Storage

Materials from which ration stamps and books could be printed are in standby storage right now in many parts of the country. Their existence isn't a secret but people are forever "discovering" it and raising concern about any imminent return of rationing.

When such a plan arises OEP explains that this is just preparedness material, put out at the local level because in a future war there might not be time to distribute it from Washington.

Should a really big war come, coordination of all nonmilitary mobilization would be centralized in the Office of Defense Resources, an agency that now exists just on paper. The head man would be America's "mobilization czar," an OEP official said.

By presidential order, OEP and other federal agencies engaged in preparedness planning draw up their proposals to meet emergencies on an ascending scale. At the bottom is "international tension" then limited war, general war, and finally national attack.

Some of the preparations for this last category strike a grim note in a nation which has escaped serious invasion since the War of 1812.

To help wandering and homeless families find missing loved ones after an attack the Post Office Department has in readiness a registration system that in effect would be a refugee tracer service.

The Federal Reserve Board has stored $18 billion in new bills in vaults around the country to keep the currency in circulation at normal levels for two years in case the Bureau of Engraving is destroyed.

More than 2,600 packaged disaster hospitals have been stored throughout the country. When uncrated, each contains everything needed for a 200-bed hospital except the building.

Several hundred radio stations are receiving fallout protection for their transmitters so they could remain on the air after an attack. These same stations are receiving emergency power generators — a number of which got a workout in the big 1965 blackout.

Stockpile Material — The $6.8-billion stockpile of strategic and critical materials includes 180,000 pounds of opium to be used in pain-relieving drugs after any nuclear attack. The stockpile is a group of 77 minerals, pharmaceuticals and other substances stored against the possibility of wartime shortages. One thing that isn't stockpiled is food-basics such as flour.

While plans in the "national attack" category may never get a tryout, some at the limited war level are in use now.

The Business and Defense Services Administration, a unit within the Department of Commerce, has for about two years been managing war production by following the procedures it had framed years before.

Expedite Orders — It makes the decisions that expedite one defense order at the expense of another when both carry priorities. Because of the Vietnam buildup it is being called on to intervene in 9,000 such priority longjams a year.

OEP's $7-million budget and $4 million for related agencies, plus the proposed $111-million budget of the Office of Civil Defense, are the major units in $122 million annually for federal departments engaged in nonmilitary preparedness planning.

That's about half the cost of a diesel-powered aircraft carrier.

Asks U. S. Help

BANGKOK (AP) — Premier Thanon Kittikachorn said today the United States has agreed to give him 20 more helicopters to help suppress Communist infiltration.

The number of Communist terrorists killed in Thailand in the last 15 months has risen to 185 and the number captured to 2,137, Thanon said.

The premier said he has asked U. S. Air Force units based in Thailand to intercept North Vietnamese helicopters which he said fly men and supplies into Thailand from northern Laos. Seven such flights were reported last week.

Riot Over Gambling

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — A quarrel between members of a gambling club and their landlord flared into an orgy of Hindu-Muslim knifing and brick-throwing in the streets Sunday. Five persons were killed and 100 were injured.

Troops were called out and a dusk-to-dawn curfew imposed in East Calcutta. Violence continued into the night with street battles and stoning of cars.

Large-scale fighting erupted after the quarrel between the gamblers and the landlord spread to the opposing religious elements.

Two persons were killed by police gunfire after tear gas failed to disperse the rioters.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Folks: If you use fish patties and the instructions say brush with butter, try my method of using corn oil if you are on a low fat diet. I pour a dab of corn oil on the patties and use a paper napkin to smear it with.

Then, instead of placing them directly on a cookie sheet, I put mine on a cake rack first and set this rack on the cookie sheet. Because the cake rack has little feet, the patties are held away from the cookie sheet and the browning does not stick as easily. You'll end up with more of that delicious batter on each patty.

Besides, instead of browning one side at a time, you are also partially browning the bottom side. That good ole batter gets cooked on the bottom side and the patty cooks evenly all the way through.

This is a "fish story" you can believe.

Heloise

Dear Heloise: An ordinary pillowcase makes a perfect sheet for baby's bassinet.

It slips right on and you have no odd-sized bassinet sheets left over as they are used for such a short time.

Also, I tuck a folded diaper securely over the bassinet sheet where the baby's head lies. These can be changed quickly like a slip sheet on a hospital bed.

No need to change the complete bed because of a few stains, burps, etc.

Gail Saylor

Dear Heloise: I suggest when placing an ad in the Lost and Found Column for a lost pet that you also give the name of the pet. They are usually afraid and confused. Calling them by name will help catch and return 'em to their owners.

Mrs. Steve Kariozi

Dear Heloise: For double beds with one head board: When beds are pulled apart the wheels usually make marks on floors, especially on tile floors.

I covered the outside of all our wheels with adhesive and now when I move the beds I have no marked floors.

Betty Rodrick

Dear Heloise: After my youngest child outgrew his carriage, I had about six good baby blankets that I didn't know what to do with.

I cut off the ribbon, folded them in half and trimmed them with a colored binding that matched my bathroom.

They made wonderful drip pads for the children to stand on while drying after a bath.

Mrs. I. S.

Dear Heloise: Before drying or tinting curtains or garments, run a few strings of white cotton thread through the hem so that they are dyed with the rest of the material.

After drying they may be pulled out and rolled on a spool to be used for later mending or hemming.

They will exactly match the color of the article when the need arises.

For Fredericksen Too Many

For Lemberg Dean Just Enough

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

If Bob Fredericksen never plays another extra hole match, it will be too soon, he says. And can you blame him? But now you take Lemberg Dean. He likes those marathon fairway jaunts.

Dean has just defeated Fredericksen for the annual Spring Handicap Match Play championship at Woodstock Country Club, 4 and 3, and he found the 15 extra holes quite comforting.

Fredericksen looks at it another way, while kicking himself in the pants for losing the last two holes of the first round to let Dean square the match and send it into overtime (a full round by Woodstock rules).

The extra-hole affair was Fredericksen's fourth in five matches leading to the championship finals. A year ago, he and County Welfare Commissioner Joseph Fitzsimmons engaged in a classic 54-hole playoff in which the commissioner prevailed, one up.

Runnerup two straight years and plagued by extra hole matches Fredericksen jokingly ponders retirement from match play golf. Of course, he doesn't mean it, but as he put it: "I'm dizzy from those laps around the Woodstock course."

Blows Big Chance

Capitalizing on his two handicap strokes, Fredericksen could have spared himself the agony of defeat by halving either the 17th or 18th holes in the first round. Three up at the end of 9, he went to the 17th tee two up over Dean.

With victory in his grasp, Fredericksen tightened badly and needed four strokes to reach the green on one of Woodstock's easiest hole, Dean, on 3, two-putted to take the hole with a bogey 5.

Dean halved the match by canning a difficult 5-footer for a par 3 on the 18th, while Fredericksen, off to the right, chipped 20 feet past the cup and missed his bid for a 3.

Dean quickly took charge on the third nine. Fredericksen was able to win only the second hole. Dean moved 3 up with a 4-3 finish at the end of 27 holes.

Fredericksen salvaged the 29th hole with a handicap stroke but picked up on the 31st and lost the 32nd to Dean's par 5 to go 4 down with 4 to go. When they halved the 33rd with par 4 the match was over.

Burt Dean was the new champion and Bob Fredericksen was runnerup. Again. And you know what he insisted they had played just enough holes.

Flag Day

Winners in the Flag Day competition were Don Fardon and Mrs. Sally Sprague at Woodstock. Fardon used 17 handicap strokes to place his last shot 150 yards off the 20th tee. Mrs. Sprague, 45 handicap, finished 20 yards from the 18th green with her allotment of strokes.

Other winners:
John Turnbull (27) in 19th cup; Mike Mottlesse (18) 17 feet from 19th pin; Ray DuBois (8) 26 feet from 19th pin; Dave Halpert (11) 30 feet from 19th pin; Percy Lyons, 80 yards from 19th green; N. L. Dills, 100 yards from 19th green.

Mrs. Joseph Forno (22) three and one half feet from 17th cup. Mrs. Arnold Broggi finished 15 feet off 17th green.

Mixed Foursome
Anthony Pizzarelli and Mrs. Bobby Gormley won Monday's Mixed Foursome event with a net 63. They posted nines of 41-45 for 86 and 23 strokes handicap. Play was under the Pinehurst system.

Other leaders:
Tom Nau-Sofie Bernard, 90-25-65; Harry Kennedy - Mrs. Arnold Broggi, 84-18-66; Clair Schaeffer-Mrs. Joseph Forno, 91-24-67; Noel France - Mrs. Thomas H. Denny, 83-25-68; Morton Brett-Margaret Bernard, 90-21-69.

Blind Holes Tie..

Richard Rydberg and Napoleon Dills tied with net 55's to share first place in the Blind Holes tournament. Rydberg (12 handicap) posted 46-38-84 and subtracted 29 strokes. Dills, 32 handicap, shaved 49 strokes off his 53-51-104. Scores on the first seventh and 13th holes were deducted in addition to the full handicap.

Other winners:
Arnold Broggi, 78-22-56; Frank Murphy, 90-33-57; David Halpert, 81-23-58; Noel France, 101-42-59; Mike Mottlesse, 89-30-59.

Kickers Slated In Sunday Show At Randall's

Kingston Sport Club Kickers get a second shot at powerful Bridgeport in a League Division game which will be part of the German-American Soccer Association's 44th anniversary Sports Festival Sunday at Randall's Island.

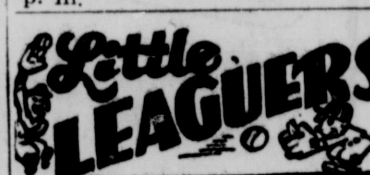

The game between the two LD rivals is scheduled at 12 noon.

Since 1950, the G-A has staged international soccer games as the highlight of the annual sports day.

In Sunday's double-barreled attraction, the GA All Stars meet the Bavarian All Stars of West Germany in the preliminary. The main contest will be between Heleneis, front runners in the G-A's Major division, and TG Heilbronn also of West Germany.

The Bavarians represent the largest State Association which has more than a half million active members, and have won the German Inter-State championship seven times. The G-A All Stars, however, are old hands at trouncing invading teams.

In addition to the adult soccer games, there will be juvenile soccer, bicycle races and a flag parade. The program ends with taps at 5:30 p. m.

RL Tigers Halt Red Sox Streak At 18 Games

The rampaging Tigers ended the Red Sox's 18-game winning streak, 4-2, in the Rondout Valley Little League.

Carl Speakman checked the Sox on four hits and struck out 11. The Tigers collected six hits off Bill Wilkins, who fanned 10. Speakman also hit two singles. Bill Mayer of the Sox tripled and Sean Cafferty of the Tigers rapped two doubles.

National League Seeking Addresses

Rondout National Little League needs the help of residents of Wards 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9 for service addresses and names of any boy who played in this league and is now serving in any branch of the armed forces.

A card will be sent to each one and if the response is adequate, each service man will receive a package. Parents of these boys are asked to give the information to any league member as soon as possible.

Later in the year a list of the boys will be unveiled at the clubhouse.

7 Perfect Innings - Heartbreak

Reds Wreck Hughes Bid

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer
After waiting eight years for his first big break, Dick Hughes was prepared to wait 55 minutes for the chance of a lifetime.

His patience proved to be a virtue — but his fast ball let him down just a few steps short of the Hall of Fame.

Hughes, a 29-year-old rookie who labored for eight years in the minor leagues before catching on with St. Louis late last season, pitched seven perfect innings against Cincinnati Tuesday night, striking out 12 and weathering a 55-minute rain delay after the sixth.

But hot-hitting Tony Perez led off the Reds' eighth with a triple, igniting a two-run rally, and the National League leaders nailed a 2-1 victory over Hughes and the Cardinals by pulling off a triple play in the ninth.

In another cliff-hanger at San Francisco, Jim Bunning ended opposing pitcher Juan Marichal's eight-game winning string with a ninth-inning homer, lifting the Philadelphia Phillies past the Giants 5-4.

Pirate Split

Pittsburgh divided a double-header with Houston, winning the nightcap 4-3 after the Astros took the first game 3-2. Atlanta split with the Chicago Cubs, bowing 12-5 in the opener before rebounding for a 4-1 victory, and Los Angeles slugged the New York Mets 7-2 in a single game.

Perez tripped off the center field wall, extending his hitting streak to 17 games, after Hughes retired the first 21 batters he faced in a bid for the 11th perfect game in baseball history.

One out later, Vada Pinson tied the score 1-1 with a double and then scored the deciding run on a single by Leo Cardenas.

Cards Strike Back

The Cards struck back in the ninth when Orlando Cepeda singled and advanced to second on Tim McCarver's single. Don Nottebart then replaced Reds' starter Jim Maloney and Phil Gagliano hit his first pitch to shortstop Cardenas.

Cardenas flipped to second baseman Tommy Helms for the force on McCarver and Helms' relay to first baseman Deron Johnson doubled Gagliano. Cepeda hesitated at third, then broke for the plate, but was nailed on Johnson's throw to catcher John Edwards, completing the game-ending triple play.

"I sent Nottebart in to pitch, hoping he would throw a low ball for a grounder," said Reds Manager Dave Bristol. "He sure did."

Strike Out 13

Hughes, who wound up with a three-hitter, 13 strikeouts and his second loss in four decisions, said he tried to slip a fast ball by Perez with the count 3-2 in the eighth.

"I was just trying for a strike," he said. "My slider was not going where I wanted it to, and after the rain stopped the game I began relying on my fast ball."

Merrill Leads Area National Golf Day

William Merrill Jr. of The Twaalfskill Club fired a net 61 to lead 26 area golfers who "beat" or tied Billy Casper's 71 in National Golf Day events Tuesday.

Merrill, an insurance adjuster, posted a 73 and had 12 handicap strokes. Tied for runnerup with net 64's were Mrs. George Rusk and Don Fardon of Woodstock Country Club. Casper, 1966 U.S. Open champion, defeated Al Geiberger, PGA champion, 71-72, in their match at Olivas Park Golf Course in Ventura, Calif. Golfers across the nation, with handicaps, competed against this score. Winners and ties will receive an embossed plastic bag tag.

Vikings Sign Three Players

A pair of linemen and a former All-American linebacker have signed contracts to play this season with the Hudson Valley Vikings of the North Atlantic Football League, according to president and general manager John J. (Jack) Halahan.

The signees are defensive tackle Joe Jackson of Paterson, N. J.; Ted Zahorbenki of Jersey City, N. J.; and Wally Florence, the All-American linebacker from Purdue.

Jackson, 27, is a 6-2, 265-pounder from Florida A. and M. He was one of the top tackles in the Continental League two seasons ago for the champion Newark Bears but sat out last season with a knee injury. Zahorbenki, a 6-1 245-pounder, attended Southern Illinois University and played with the Scranton Miners of the Atlantic Coast Football League.

The 25-year-old Florence played for Newark in 1965 and was a standout last season for the Brooklyn Dodgers of the Continental League.

AMHERST, Mass. (AP) — Boston College will meet Massachusetts in a doubleheader Friday in a best-of-3 series for the New England championship and a berth in the NCAA baseball tournament opening June 12 at Omaha, Neb.

Important Man Now

Innocent Years End For L.A.'s Lefebvre

By SANDY PADWE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Jim Lefebvre realized things would be different this season for the Los Angeles Dodgers without Sandy Koufax and Maury Wills.

What he didn't realize, however, was the degree of difference.

The Dodgers' third baseman is in his third major league season. The first two were spent with pennant winners. Now the team is losing, and Jim Lefebvre is hearing about it. Frankly, he is surprised.

"Maybe I shouldn't be," he said. "I just thought people would realize we're rebuilding and have more patience. You just don't lose a Wills and Koufax and not feel it."

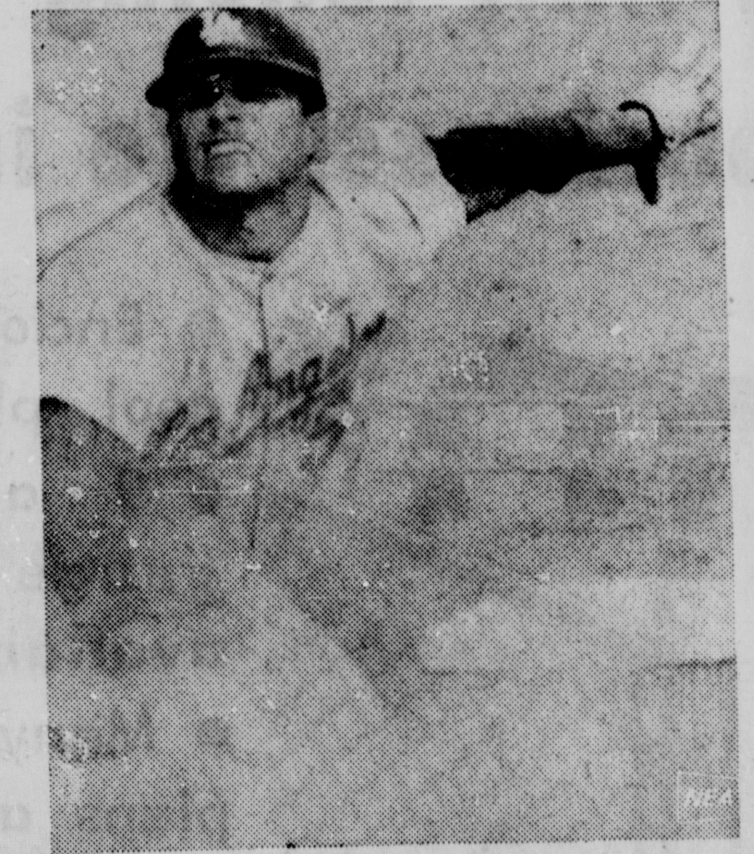

"They don't give us a chance. We've got some good new players. We're going to be a different kind of team now. We're going to score more runs, but we need some time."

Touch of Sadness

There was a touch of sadness in Lefebvre's plea. With Wills and Koufax gone, Jim, a Los Angeles native, becomes one of the Dodgers leaders and a key figure in the team's rebuilding plans. If he were from another town, it wouldn't be so difficult to understand the attitude of the fans and the press. But when the people are those you have come to know and trust most, the hurt goes much deeper.

"The team knew it wouldn't be the same this year," Lefebvre said. "We went to spring training knowing it. But we didn't sit around and moan. We know we'll win because we have good talent."

There is no real way, Lefebvre says, to measure the value of Wills and Koufax to the Dodgers. "It goes beyond just wins and losses," he said. "Look, if you take Juan Marichal off the Giants, Jim Bunning off the Phillies and Bob SHOWING THE STRAIN and pain of stardom, Jim Lefebvre of the Los Angeles Dodgers grimaces as he slides into second base during a game with the Atlanta Braves. With Sandy Koufax retired and Maury Wills moved to Pittsburgh Lefebvre has become a key man for the Dodgers.

Veale off the Pirates what would happen? There's just no way a team can lose its best pitcher and not feel it.

"The same with Maury. He was more than just a shortstop and captain. He was a leader, and don't believe those people who say there are no real leaders in baseball.

Was Reassuring
"I just found it reassuring to have Maury playing alongside me (Jim) was at second base the past two years. He was constantly talking to me, making sure I was playing the hitters correctly."

"When we'd lose he'd take the blame on himself. When we'd win, he'd spread the praise around. So with a guy like that, it becomes more than just a measure of physical abilities. "The same with Sandy. You know when he was pitching you would win. Just having him out there made a difference. You felt like a winner."

Lefebvre shook his head. He is a handsome youngster who wore a constant smile those first two years. Those were the innocent years.

Now he is learning about success, American style. The bitterness is beginning to show. It happens to everybody sooner or later.

The source of the bitterness — The Los Angeles fans — make it doubly difficult for Jim Lefebvre.

Bunning's second homer of the year broke up a 4-4 duel with Marichal, who had won eight in a row after dropping his first three decisions. Tom Haller hit two homers for the Giants, tying the score with a bases-empty blast in the eighth.

Don Clendenon's double in the eighth inning scored the winning run for Pittsburgh in the nightcap after Rusty Staub's sixth inning homer gave the Astros their first-game victory.

Mathews Hits 96th

Rookie Don Wilson checked the Pirates on seven hits in the opener and Ed Mathews hit his 46th career homer for the Astros in the second game.

Mack Jones drove in three runs with a triple and his second homer of the day, powering the Braves past the Cubs in their nightcap. Two-run homers by Billy Williams and Ron Santo, coupled with Ferguson Jenkins' 12-strikeout pitching, helped the Cubs breeze home in the first game.

Don Sutton stopped the Mets on five hits and the Dodgers slapped out 10, including two-run singles by Le Gabrielson and Willie Davis.

SIDELINE VIEWS

By ED PALLADINO

When Abner Doubleday began the sport of baseball back in 1839, we are certain he meant it to be played in warm weather. Mr. Doubleday would probably be turning over in his grave if he saw some of the conditions with which the high schools and colleges in the area have had to struggle in order to complete their seasons.

The area season began in April and will be concluded within the next few days. Believe it or not, there have been only four afternoons of baseball-like weather. It's been a complex problem, thanks to the worst spring in recent memory.

NICE TRY, AL

When Al DiBernardo, Ulster Community director of athletics and also its baseball coach, booked the 1967 Region XV tournament this year for Kingston, he couldn't have dreamed the problems he would be facing during the two-day event.

The action was originally scheduled for Friday and Saturday with two-night twinbills being planned. However, since Kingston High School's varsity and jayvee teams also use Dietz Stadium, DiBernardo was forced to schedule one game at noon on Friday and another for 8 p. m.

Ergo, the weatherman failed to cooperate. The Friday noon contest rescheduled for 6:30 p. m., moving the 8 o'clock game to a 9:45 start. At the unholy hour of 1:30 Saturday morning, the second contest was completed.

FROM NIGHT TO DAY

Not only did the doubleheader finish at an hour when most mortals are sleeping, but the cold weather didn't help the disposition of the teams. Therefore, it was decided to play the Saturday games in the afternoon instead of the evening, giving the players a chance to thaw out under the sun.

Nassau Community, the defending national junior college champion, won the tournament. DiBernardo's Ulster nine didn't win a game but the UCCC athletic director certainly earned some sympathy. The obstacles, however, were too many to overcome.

FAREWELL TO ED

How does one say goodbye to a gentleman like Ed Faller? The Middletown High athletic director died of a heart attack last week in the prime of life. He was 50 and you could have earned yourself some money by trying to tell that to someone. Ed Faller had a few traces of grey hair, but he was lean and fit, much like a man in his 30s.

His final job was to take charge of the DUSO track meet on Saturday, May 23 at Wilson Field. As usual, he ran the meet with thoroughness and simplicity. There were no problems because Faller saw to it the operation was run smoothly.

Ed Faller was a native of Middletown. He became the city boy who made good, returning to coach and finally being named the school's athletic director. It wasn't a coincidence that the Middies were doing well in the DUSO League the past few years. That's another trait of Faller's that rubbed off.

STRICT, YET FAIR

Ed Faller was strict in every sense of the word. He earned the respect of those who came in contact with him, not only because he was strict but because he was also fair. He was a gentleman, wanted to be treated like one and gave the identical treatment in return.

Our regrets go to his family, coaches, friends and the students at Middletown High. They lost not only a fine person but a true man. He will be missed.

Hansen and Horton: ...Lips and Slides

By RON RAPOPORT

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Detroit Tigers are going to have to teach Willie Horton how to slide and the Chicago White Sox are going to have to teach Ron Hansen how to keep his mouth shut.

Horton, the burly Tiger outfielder, drove in a key run with a single in the first game of his club's doubleheader victory over the Sox Tuesday, but when he tried to stretch it into a double, he was out on a throw from catcher J. C. Martin to Hansen despite an attempt at a slide.

Hansen, understandably pleased with himself even though he had a three-inch gash on his left arm from Horton's spikes, made a remark. That tore it for Willie who went after the infielder with a vengeance. It took the entire Detroit team the better part of five minutes to calm him down.

And he never did calm down enough to suit Chicago. In the eighth inning of the nightcap, Horton hit a tremendous home run to the upper deck in right field, tying the game and setting the stage for the eventual victory.

The Tigers moved into first place in the American League, 1½ games ahead of the Sox with their double triumph, 4-2 and 4-3. In other Memorial Day doubleheader action, Baltimore split with Cleveland, 5-4 and 2-3. Washington swept two from Kansas City 6-2 and 4-3 in 11 innings. Boston won a pair from California 5-4 and 6-1 and New York split with Minnesota 4-3 and 0-3.

Hansen, who at 6-foot-3 and 200 pounds was able to handle himself adequately in the fracas with the 5-10, 195-pound Horton, said later he couldn't remember what he'd said to so infuriate the Tiger outfielder.

But unwise John Rice described Hansen as saying, "Nice going. You're going to have to come in here again."

For his part, Horton said, "He thought I tried to spike him. I don't know all those trick slides."

Track Record At Finger Lakes

CANANDAIGUA, N.Y. (AP) — A record Memorial Day crowd of 13,165 watched as Jim Dooley set a track mark by covering the mile in 1:39 in the $2,500 feature race Tuesday at the Finger Lakes Race Track.

Jim Dooley, owned by Hugh A. Grant of Bradford, Pa. and piloted by jockey Warren Vedilago, roared through the stretch to overtake the pace - setting Melnick. The winner paid $5-40, $2.00 and $2.60.

Law Partner was third. The handle, $602,527, also was a record Memorial Day figure. The old marks for both Memorial Day attendance and handle were posted in 1965 when 13,129 persons wagered $593,536.

KAYAK MANEUVER—Bill Bickman and Dave Kurtz of State College, Pa. head for Gate 10 in the 1966 Esopus Whitewater Slalom. This maneuver will be repeated several times Saturday and Sunday when the fourth annual renewal is run at Phoenicia.

Esopus Whitewater Derby

Kayak, Canoe Slalom Sunday at Phoenicia

The Ulster County hamlet of Phoenicia will be the scene Saturday and Sunday of the 4th annual Esopus Whitewater Slalom.

More than 100 athletes from a unique field of sports will descend on the area to compete in the event sponsored jointly by the Central Catskills Association, the Phoenicia Rotary and Phoenicia Businessmen's Association in cooperation with the Kayak and Canoe Club of New York.

Runs on the 1,000 cubic feet of water per second flowing through the "railroad rapids" of the Esopus start Saturday morning at 10:30 a. m. and on Sunday at 10 and will finish about 3:30.

The Esopus slalom is expected to attract some of the best paddlers in the East as a warmup for the world championships to be held at Lipno, Czechoslovakia, in late June. Classes to be run will be the single canoe for men (C-1), the single canoe for women (C-1W), the double canoe for men (C-2), the double canoe for a man and woman (C-2M) and the double canoe for women (C-2W).

The kayak classes are designated K-1, and K-1W. Double kayakers are not used in white water competition.

The white water slalom is something like a ski slalom. The object of the competitor is to cover the course in the shortest time possible. He must pass through gates suspended over the water in the proper sequence and in the right direction over a quarter mile course.

Levy Penalties

The score is determined by adding the time in seconds from start to finish plus the penalty points for omitting or hitting the gates.

The gates are numbered to show the sequence and the poles are colored to show how they should be passed. A red and white pole is on the competitor's left; a green and white to the right. Gates marked R must be passed through stern first.

Contestants are penalized ten points for hitting the inside of a pole, 50 points for hitting the outside and 100 points for missing the gates altogether. An upset disqualifies the boater unless he is able to roll up without leaving the boat.

Inter Pitchers Have Great Day

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Memorial Day 1967 in the International League will go down in memory — for the pitchers, that is.

Five games produced a total of 16 runs. There were two 1-0 games, one of which went 13 innings, and a 2-0 encounter. The score was 2-1 in another scrap. The score in one contest actually mounted to 4-2.

The holiday crowds ranged from a low of 758 at Toledo, where the Mud Hens edged the Columbus Jets 1-0, to a high of 13,193 at Richmond, where the Braves were beaten by the Jacksonville Suns 2-0.

Rochester's league-leading Red Wings lost to the Syracuse Chiefs 2-1. The Buffalo Bisons outlasted Toronto in the 13-inning, 1-0 affair, but the Maple Leafs won the nightcap of the only doubleheader 4-2.

Daryl Patterson pitched a three-hitter for Toledo and struck out 11 Columbus batters. The game's only run came in the sixth inning on Tom Matchick's double, an infield out and a single by Jake Wood, optioned to Toledo from Detroit two days ago. The Jets' John Geinar gave up seven hits.

The crowd at Richmond, third largest in the city's history in league play, saw Floyd Weaver and Frank Kasheta combine for a two-hitter for Jacksonville. Two Richmond pitchers surrendered only five hits.

Larry Stahl singled home a Sun run in the sixth, and one scored in the seventh on an error.

Stan Bahnsen pitched a five-hitter for Syracuse while Rochester's Jim Hardin gave up just four safeties. Bahnsen struck out nine, Hardin 10. Tom Shoppay's single, a sacrifice and Mike Ferraro's double produced the Chiefs' winning run in the ninth.

Each team used two pitchers in the 13-inning opener at Buffalo, in which Toronto got 10 hits to the Bisons' seven.

Stan Swanson singled, stole second and rode home on Frank Obregon's single for the only run in the 12th.

Larry Baughman's homer gave the Bisons a 2-0 lead in the nightcap, but the Leafs went ahead for good with three runs in the fourth, winning pitcher Dave Vineyard driving in the go-ahead marker.

Vineyard, who pitched a no-hitter in his last start, scattered nine hits for the victory.

Whitey Ford Leaves Brilliant Record

NEW YORK (AP)—Whitey Ford has thrown his last pitch, and another chapter of New York Yankee history is over.

The 38-year-old southpaw, the winningest pitcher in Yankee history, stood before a battery of microphones Tuesday and said he was retiring as a player because of a bone spur in his left elbow.

A short time later he stood in street clothes on the field at Yankee Stadium to receive a thunderous, standing ovation from 41,136 fans present for a doubleheader with Minnesota.

And with the flood of cheers came a host of memories of what Whitey Ford had done for and had been to the Yankees since joining them in the middle of the 1950 season.

He won 236 games and lost 106 for a percentage of .690, the highest for any pitcher with 200 or more victories since 1900.

In compiling that record, the fun-loving lefty set a bunch of team and World Series records. His Series marks include 33-23 consecutive scoreless innings, breaking Babe Ruth's record; most victories, 10; most starts, 22; and most strikeouts, 94.

Shows Emotion

Ford, whose eyes became moist during the news conference, said of his decision to retire:

"I'm positive I'm doing the right thing. But I wish I could have played a few more years to be part of the rebuilding program.

Though it was a sad occasion, Ford's sense of humor kept things from becoming too solemn.

"I came here in 1950 wearing $50 suits," he said, "and I'm leaving wearing $200 suits. So I guess I'm doing all right."

Then he quipped, "I get them for $80."

Asked about the future—he'll scout and possibly do some special public relations work for

500 Classic Resumes With Jones Leading

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — The 51st 500 mile race field was called back at 10 a.m. EST today to resume the contest postponed by a rainout Tuesday after 45 miles. It was the first overnight recess ever for the historic event.

The order of line, single file instead of the initial three-abreast, changed considerably after the Memorial Day sprint, dominated completely by a new type of car.

Parnelli Jones and his glowing red turbine car, sixth in the original lineup, were in first place with four track records already.

Mario Andretti, who started first Tuesday after smashing all records in the 10-mile elimination heats, not only was down to 32nd in the Indian file but actually was six laps behind Jones. His crew had to change his clutch Tuesday.

Roger McCluskey, dogged by mechanical trouble in the qualifications, had charged up from 22nd to 10th place in the short run before the rain.

Lloyd Ruby, one of the favorites and a leader in most of the 1966 event, had disappeared entirely with a burned piston.

Graham Hill of London, the 1966 winner, was an early visitor to the pits after a delayed start and said "something serious" seemed to be wrong with his Lotus-Ford.

Jones' STP-Pratt & Whitney turbine, eerily silent as it flashed around the 2 1/2-mile asphalt, merely proved what Andretti, Dan Gurney and other veteran drivers had been saying: the conventional piston engine cars couldn't keep up with it.

Parnelli, the 1963 winner, ran the fifth lap of the Tuesday session at a fantastic 164.926 m.p.h., compared with the previous one lap competitive recordman Jimmy Clark in a Lotus-Ford.

Three-time winner Mauri Rose took over the pace car from previous amateur drivers from automotive industries and led the field to a fast, clean start—probably the fastest the pace car ever ran.

Gordon Johncock, on the outside of the front row, got in front of Gurney, who started in the middle, before the first turn, with Andretti pulling ahead. That opened a hole for Jones, who was outside on the second row and he charged past Gurney and Johncock.

By the time the cars had rounded the second turn, Jones had pulled alongside Andretti whooshed away on the long backstretch.

Jones, in addition to his single best lap for the race, set a first lap mark of 154.374, 158.156 for two laps and 154.477 for the first 10. He had hiked his average to 155.117 for 18 laps in spite of the fact the yellow "hold position" light was on two minutes after Lee Roy Yarbrough spun in the northwest turn.

Invest Myerson As Buffalo Head

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Martin Myerson, 44, was inaugurated Monday as president of the 121-year-old State University of Buffalo.

Chancellor Samuel B. Gould of the State University of New York officially invested Myerson who becomes the 10th chief administrator of the university.

Myerson, formerly dean and acting chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley, was appointed president of the university here last year. He succeeded Dr. Clifford C. Furnas, who retired last Aug. 31 after 12 years as president and chancellor of the university.

Present at the inauguration were Dr. Clark Kerr, former president of the University of California under whom Myerson served, and Kingman Brewster, president of Yale.

In his inaugural address, Myerson stressed three major tasks which lie ahead for him and his colleagues at the university.

They must transform professional education by making it more humane, intellectual and research-minded, he said.

The university must also add "to the intrinsically valuable traditional academic disciplines that devotion to social purpose, which is typically a part of the spirit of service to the professions," Myerson said.

Thirdly, the university president said that he and his colleagues must "provide a new path to liberal education through the methods, insights and research of transformed professional education."

A presidential medalion for the ceremony was designed by Ivan Chermavell of New York City, designer of the interior of the U.S. Pavilion at Expo 67. The medalion includes a new university emblem, also created by Chermavell, a radical cluster of six books.

Low Readings For Next 5 Days

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Extended forecasts for Upstate New York, as reported by the U.S. Weather Bureau, from Thursday through Monday:

Seasonable cool temperatures are expected to prevail during the period with minor day to day changes. Daytime highs will be in the mid-60s to mid-70s and nighttime lows generally in the 40s.

Little or no rainfall is expected.

LBJ Schedules Priority for Mid-East, Viet

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Middle East and Vietnam are expected to get priority attention at top-level White House meetings today with President Johnson back from a Memorial Day weekend in Texas.

He had joined the nation on Memorial Day in prayers for its war dead and expressed hopes for "a brighter day of peace" as tensions mounted in the Middle East and fighting continued in Vietnam.

The President and his Cabinet were together at noon. Johnson plans a luncheon meeting an hour later with Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Walt W. Rostow, Johnson's special assistant for national security affairs.

The President spent almost four days at his LBJ Ranch in the Texas hill country near Johnson City. He flew back with Mrs. Johnson aboard his big Air Force jet plane, landing early today.

The First Lady had gone to Texas Thursday to spend time with her younger daughter, Mrs. Patrick J. Nugent, who is expecting her first baby in the next few weeks.

The President and his wife joined members of their staff and neighbors in a special private memorial prayer service on the ranch house lawn, with Roman Catholic, Episcopal and Christian Church preachers from nearby churches participating.

The President made public a Memorial Day message from South Vietnam's chief of state, Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, which extolled the sacrifices of American fighting men.

Thieu said they had joined in a noble cause and their sacrifices would be a bulwark against tyranny.

In an answering message Johnson said, "We look forward to a brighter day of peace and progress in Vietnam, in Asia and throughout the world."

Young Dems Slate Convention in Area

John D. Kearney, of Richmond County, president of the New York State Young Democrats, serving from 1957 to 1963, has been appointed convention chairman of the 1967 biennial State Convention of the New York State Young Democrats. Boves is presently a member of the executive committee of the Rensselaer County Democratic Committee and a member of the Hudson River-Black River Regulation District Commission.

The Young Democratic Convention, to be held at the Waldemere Hotel at Livingston Manor, on the weekend of June 23, 24 and 25, has been called for the purpose of electing the officers of the official Young Democratic organization of New York State.

Kearney also announced John J. Burns, chairman of the New York State Democratic Committee will be one of the principal speakers at the installation banquet, Saturday night following the convention session.

The annual State Convention of the New York State College Young Democrats will also be held at the Waldemere on the weekend of June 23-25. Robert C. Kohn, president of the organization, reported that the college students would draft and adopt their State Platform and elect officers for the coming year.

House Entered

Edward Wilde, Box 250, Springtown Road, New Paltz, reported Tuesday that his house had been entered some time between May 27 and May 30 and a quantity of bedding, a clock and food had been taken. Value of the missing property was given as $50. Ulster County Investigator Harold T. Bowers is investigating.

Took Overdose

Sherry A. Levine, 18, of 2233 East 63rd Street, Brooklyn, was brought to Kingston Hospital Tuesday afternoon by Don's ambulance. An investigation by the sheriff's department disclosed she was a student at the State University College in New Paltz and it was reported she had taken an overdose of tranquilizer pills.

Coast Couple Held, Linked to Bank Robbery

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A young couple from California were being held in the Albany County jail here today in connection with the theft of $7,300 from a bank in a Montreal suburb last Tuesday.

James Garrett, 29, and his wife, Susan, 23, were to be arraigned today on charges of armed robbery. State Police said the two were from Studio City, Calif., but had been staying in Lake George.

The two were arrested Monday in the Town of Moreau, near Glens Falls, when a troop-er recognized the couple's car as similar to the one described in a State Police teletype message.

Garrett and his wife appeared before U. S. Commissioner Bender Solomon Monday. He set bail for each at $25,000.

The robbery took place at the Royal Bank of Canada office in Ville St. Laurent. A total of $7,300 in Canadian currency was reported stolen. Troopers said no shots were fired and no one was injured.

State Police said the couple did not resist arrest and added they were not armed when arrested.
